U. N. Overrides Soviet Protest

Blockade Debate Accepted

Russia Won't Take Part

PARIS — (AP) — The United Nations security council voted 9 to 2 today to admit the western powers' case against the Soviet blockade of Berlin and Russia immediately announced she would not take part in the debate.

Deputy foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky demanded the floor and declared:

"The Soviet Union considers that the security council, by agreeing to put the Berlin question on its agenda, has violated the charter of the United Nations."

Only Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voted against discussing the Berlin crisis. A majority of seven affirmative votes was required.

Vishinsky declared that the adoption of the agenda was a violation of the United Nations charter, specifically of Article 107.

Dmitri Manuilsky of the Ukraine then announced that he also would refuse to participate in the debate on Berlin, "for the reasons outlined by the Soviet delegate."

Council President Juan Atilio Bramuglia of Argentina then adjourned the council at 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. EST) with the announcement that there would be two meetings tomorrow.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States announced that he would speak at the session tomorrow morning.

VISHINSKY PROTESTS

In an address prior to the vote Vishinsky said Jessup's statement that the Soviet Union is trying to avoid using the United Nations "cannot be taken seriously."

This, he said, "is an attempt to divert us."

The Soviet deputy foreign minister reiterated that the Big Four council of foreign ministers had been created specifically to deal with German problems.

The council of foreign ministers, Vishinsky said, "is an instrument of peace and security."

"Its competence is sharply limited and quite different from that of the United Nations," he said.

He said the present difficulties had arisen because of the allied currency reform measures which directly affected Germany.

"Gentlemen of the Security council, you have a lot of worries before you already," he said. "It is hardly worthy of you to ignore these direct responsibilities in favor of one that does not concern you."

Vishinsky returned to the currency reform, saying the western powers argued that it did not relate to Germany.

"Where is it then," he asked, "somewhere in the stratosphere?"

He said it was agreed at San Francisco that the council of foreign ministers was to deal with Germany and conclude a peace treaty.

Lewis Flays President

CINCINNATI —(AP)— John L. Lewis today criticized President Truman as "a malignant scheming sort of individual who is dangerous not only to the United Mine Workers but dangerous to the United States of America."

"It devolves upon you," Lewis told the opening of his union's 40th convention. "to decide whether he is to be a future president."

The 2,900 delegates shouted "No!" They applauded almost every critical reference made to Mr. Truman during his opening address. And there were many in the 25 uninterrupted minutes that consumed most of Lewis' speech.

"Harry Truman is totally unfit for the position," Lewis said, "his principles are elastic. He is careless with the truth. He has no special knowledge of anything."

Lewis made no reference to Mr. Truman's Republican rival, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

UPSET KILLS DRIVER

URBANA —(AP)— A tractor upset on a sharp turn in a farm lane yesterday and killed Hearcheal L. Wycoff, 48, an employe on the V. H. Burnham farm near Mechanicsburg.

City Voter Registration Sets Record

1,222 Sign Up At Board Office

The Richland county board of elections set a record yesterday by registering or transferring 1,222 persons to vote at the Nov. 2 election.

Election board officials said it was the biggest day on record at the office. The registration period closed last night.

Throughout the day long lines extended from the election board offices. Workers stayed at their desks for long hours at a stretch as the lines of waiting people increased as the day wore on.

RECORD SEEN

Although figures on the total number of qualified voters were not available today, registrations are believed to have reached a record high in the city and Madison township. Voters in other sections of the county are not required to register.

Total registration in the Mansfield-Madison township area for the last presidential election was 22,342.

Over the rest of Ohio, election officials were talking unofficially of a vote of 3,500,000 in November.

Metropolitan Cleveland and Cuyahoga county reported a total registration of 651,810, some 6,000 higher than the 1946 record of 645,194. Election officials estimated that about 25,000 prospective voters failed to register because of the excitement over the Cleveland Indians' American league victory.

Summit county reported registration of 166,577 and an actual increase of voting strength of about 7,000 since 1944. The registration in 1944 was 150,477, but two townships have been added to the registration list.

Cincinnati and Hamilton county reported an unofficial total of 368,929, a local record. Some 57,929 persons qualified as voters on the final day before the deadline last night. In 1940 the actual vote in Hamilton county was 308,525.

Faith, Skill Of Mother Saves Child

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Three-year-old Leon Roger Mason owes his life today to the fact that his mother would not believe him dead when she found him floating in a fish pond.

The mother, Mrs. Leroy W. Mason, had sent Leon out to play with his brother, Otis, five, at their Colesville, Md., home.

She said she first noticed something was wrong when Otis reappeared at the house holding Leon's hat. Se said she rushed out and found the three-year-old boy, apparently dead, floating face up in a three-foot deep pond.

Mrs. Mason, a registered nurse, immediately applied artificial respiration. The youngster first showed signs of life 30 minutes later, and was rushed to a hospital. Physicians said his condition was good, but admitted him for observation.

Kettering Woods To Be Dedicated

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The Charles F. Kettering Woods near Loudonville, in Ashland county, will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon as "Tree Farm No. 20" in ceremonies conducted jointly by the Ohio Forestry association and the Ohio division of Forestry.

It Was Big Day For Sports Fans

By MARGUERITE MILLER

The most popular fellow in Mansfield yesterday was the guy with the portable radio — whether it was in a football ticket line or on the street corner.

Mansfielders didn't have to stick by their offices and homes to hear Lou Boudreau smack those two homers. Downtown streets were so quiet pedestrians kept abreast of the proceedings by the blaring radios in autos.

Even the block-long line of Mansfield-Massillon football fans who waited more than two hours for tickets — or standing room — joined the throngs who cheered the Cleveland Tribe on to the American league pennant. There was a portable radio in line, too.

Mansfielders were just ball crazy, and it didn't matter whether the ball had a horsehide or pigskin covering.

Many a worker took time off from the job to get football tickets for the Tyger-Tiger grid contest scheduled for Arlin field Oct. 22.

Ticket salesmen who patiently took care of all comers at the Moorhead agency on Park avenue west said 2,200 tickets were sold and that 50 fans, disappointed at PATIENT WAITERS—The camera could only catch a section of the block-long line, above right, of double and triple-file Mansfielders who stood for more than two hours yesterday to get either seats or standing room for the Mansfield-Massillon grid game Oct. 22. School officials reported 2,200 tickets sold and 50 persons turned away. Approximately 14,000 are expected to view the game in Arlin Field. Above, left, the men with the tickets, George Sherman and Senior High Principal Glenn G. Rohleder, were probably the busiest men in town as hundreds of Mansfield Tyger fans shuffled through the R. E. Moorhead show rooms and garage to purchase their ducats.

Seek Killer Of Ohio Girl

'Friend' Held For Questioning

SPRINGFIELD—Sheriff's deputies today detained a man who reportedly was seen with 15-year-old Mary Ann Page shortly before she was raped and fatally shot in a country school yard.

Officers refused to identify the man who was being questioned in connection with the girl's slaying. An autopsy will be performed today, United Press reported.

Mary Ann, described in an Associated Press dispatch by members of her family as 14 years old but by Coroner Austin Richards as 15 or 16, was found shot to death in a country school yard yesterday morning.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Page of Springfield and, Sheriff J. Arthur Shuman said, a fifth grader in a city school.

Sheriff Shuman said that the girl friend, Doris Kimball, 21, told of spending early Sunday evening in a county beer parlor with Mary Ann, the two soldiers, and a third man, owner of an automobile.

Coroner Richards said she apparently had been raped, shot, and then pushed out of an auto at the school yard at Boone station, two miles west of here.

She had been dead ten or 12 hours when found by the school principal, Arthur Detweiler, Richards said.

TWO BOYS KILLED

PORTSMOUTH —(AP)— Henry Lee Pennington, 13, and Frank H. Conley, 11, both of Lucasville, were struck and killed by an automobile while riding double on a bicycle yesterday.

Mansfielders Win Prizes

Two 'Fire Demons' Soon Identified

Mansfield's first two "fire demons" were identified in short order, and two Mansfielders won fire extinguishers.

Frank W. Mengert, 306 Taylor road, identified James Brownscombe as the "fire demon" for today soon after Brownscombe poked his head outside Brownscombe, proprietor of the Evergreens cafeteria, went to the Citizens National bank at 10.35 this morning on a business errand. Mengert, an employe of the bank, identified him there.

"It's the first time I ever won a thing in my life. I wanted a fire extinguisher," said Mengert.

Yesterday's award winner was Donald L. Borchardt, 440 Sturges avenue, who identified George H. Blecker as the "demon." Borchardt is an employe of the county engineer's department. Blecker is area rent director.

The "fire demons" will appear daily, one at a time, all week. The first person to identify them gets a fire extinguisher.

Each "fire demon" is one of 13 men who wears a bright red necktie as part of the city Fire Prevention observance. The ties were donated by the Richman Bros. store.

OTHER CONTESTS

Other features of Mansfield's Fire Prevention week observance are a poster contest and the soapbox fire department contest for school children.

There are about 14 entries in the soapbox contest so far and these may be seen at the various fire stations.

Prizes for the poster contest are $10, $5 and $2. A $25 woodcarving set is first prize in the soapbox contest. Second price is a $10 reflex camera, and third prize a $5 model airplane kit. In addition, the first four prize winners will receive a free trip to the Ohio State-Michigan football game in Columbus as guests of Fire Chief L. J. Steele.

Open house is being held by the fire stations this week and a $10 prize will be awarded to the person who comes closest to guessing Mansfield's fire loss for September.

The climax of the week's features will be a parade Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Prizes of $25, $10, and $5 will be offered for the best floats.

C. of C. To Celebrate

The Chamber of Commerce will hold a victory dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel tonight at 6:30 to celebrate the membership drive which ended Friday with a total enrollment of 1,226, largest in the organization's history.

Arlo Smith, campaign chairman, said prizes would be awarded to the top membership enrollment teams.

The dinner is described by Smith, and C. of C. President Harry B. Soulen, as "our way of saying 'thank you' for a job well done.".

Still No Where To Go

Convalescing Mother Seeks Home For 7

By NITA BRANSON

The five young children of the Emil Kuelling family, 443 Woodland avenue, were just as far from the promise of a permanent home today as they were three weeks ago when an eviction notice was served their parents.

This morning, Mrs. Kuelling, who got out of the hospital Saturday after her 17th operation in 14 years began again her ceaseless round of house hunting.

"I don't care what kind of a house it is," she said. "Just so its some place where we can keep our children together. Three or four rooms would do until we can get our situation straightened out."

In spite of the gravity of their situation, a very small ray of sunshine appeared on the Kuelling horizon today. In a letter from Crestline, a woman resident there who wishes her name withheld, sent a $1 hoping that it could be used as a start in getting the ball rolling for a Kuelling fund.

Mrs. Kuelling this morning, said she had no complaint whatever against the Community Chest for not taking over the family bills.

"I know they have rules just like all organizations," she said. "Miss Faye Chamberlain (Community Chest social worker) was very nice to me and I have no criticism whatever." Just now we're not particularly worried about our bills, although they do trouble us. But we must find someplace for our children; then we will do what we can."

City Tax Rate At New High

Mansfield's tax rate for next year will reach a new high of $21 per $1,000 property valuation, tentative figures prepared by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe showed today.

The tentative rate, which is one dollar per thousand higher than the present rate, won't become official until the state tax commission approves it.

Wolfe said the increase is due entirely to the county tuberculosis sanatorium bonds which were placed on the tax duplicate. The bonds were voted to finance construction of a new sanatorium on State Route 39, east of Mansfield. Work on the project is under way.

As usual, the major portion of the tax is for education, with Mansfield's schools getting $13.70 of the total.

CITY GETS $3.87

Next highest apportionment is $3.87 for the City of Mansfield. The rate of $3.30 has been earmarked for Richland county, which is uniform for all communities within the county. The Madison township share amounts to $.13.

Wolfe said the bond and levy issues to be voted on Nov. 2 will not affect the 1949 tax rate.

They include a proposed sewer bond issue of $500,000, $2,250,000 school bond issue, and a proposed pay increase for city police and firemen.

Except for Shelby, the rest of the county's tax rates have not yet been determined. The Shelby rate is $22.60.

Meat Prices Facing Drop

Market Trend Shows Change

(By United Press)

Housewives in most parts of the nation waited today for the nosedive in wholesale meat prices to show in their butcher shops.

Hog prices dropped again yesterday, as much as $2.25 at some markets. Wholesale pork prices went down four cents a pound in Chicago, and the American Meat institute reported similar drops during the last two weeks in prices of dressed beef, choice lamb and hams.

The institute said it had "no reports" of slowness in retail buying and blamed the decline entirely on increased supplies of meat. It cautioned housewives against expecting immediate reductions in retail prices.

"It takes a while for adjustments to wholesale prices to be reflected in the retail market," the institute said.

Nevertheless, one large grocery chain in New York City today put into effect price reductions ranging from 2 to 18 cents a pound on some 50 meat items. Boneless round of beef was cut from 97 to 79 cents a pound for the biggest slash.

Meanwhile, there were more predictions that the nation's economy as a whole has reached a general leveling-off period.

Walter E. Hoadly, jr., economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said business probably will be good for the rest of the year and much of 1949.

Vessels Face Bombardment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— The Navy today will bombard two tough vessels the Japanese and the atom bomb at Bikini failed to sink.

The submarine Skate and the transport Crittenden will be targets of air and surface forces assembled for the largest amphibious exercises ever held in peace time. Sixty ships, 275 aircraft and 30,000 men are participating.

The Skate, credited with sinking 129,000 tons of Japanese shipping, is to be finished off with air bombs northwest or San Clemente island. The 8000-ton Crittenden gets progressive air and surface bombardment in the same area.

Typhoon Hits U. S. Planes On Okinawa

HAVANA — (UP) — Hurricane winds reaching 130 miles an hour spread death, injury and destruction through this Cuban capital city of 500,000 persons early today and then headed for Florida, where they were expected to strike Key West by noon.

The new Atlantic storm came on the heels of a Pacific typhoon which late last night struck Okinawa, causing at least $10,000,000 damage to installations and airfields loaded with B-29's and the newest type fighter planes.

In Havana at least six persons, including two children, were killed and scores were injured. Property destruction and damage ran into unestimated millions of dollars. The casualty tolls were rising as shattered communications slowly were being reestablished.

Hospitals reported at 9:30 a. m. that they had at least 60 injured persons, seven or more in serious condition. Other scores received first aid for minor injuries and were released.

Passing Havana this morning, the hurricane was headed northnortheast at about 15 miles an hour, with southern Florida, still not recovered from a $25,000,000 blow a short time ago, directly in its path.

Before noon today the hurricane was sweeping across the Florida straits and beginning to hit Key West with 75-mile gusts.

(In Washington, a weather bureau advisory said that the hurricane, described as "very severe," will drive through most of the Everglades-Okeechobee area and along the coast as far north as Jupieter, Fla., tonight, if it continues on its present course.)

FELT IN SHANGHAI

Effects of the Okinawa typhoon, nicknamed "Libby", were felt as far as Shanghai, where a high tide piled up the Yantze river and overflowed the seawall in several places. Many parts of the bund, Shanghai's commercial section, were covered with water.

The tide partially overflowed Soochow Creek, and isolated some of the Broadway mansions where members of the American advisory group, foreign correspondents, Russian consular officials live.

Allied headquarters announced this morning that communications with Okinawa were restored. There was no detailed description of the damage.

Terse army reports said a "close inspection revealed that some warehouses were damaged severely and that piers B and C received some damages."

Earlier, reports said the storm ripped out virtually all communications on the island base, destroyed large warehouses and damaged a military hospital, theater and dependent housing area. Two LST cargo ships, a small military government freighter, a Japanese freighter and many smaller craft were driven aground. Other craft were reported loose in Naha harbor.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo immediately sent supplies and help.

Gas Reins Tightened

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state utilities commission today barred 16 Ohio gas companies from accepting new space heating customers without written authorization by the commission. Four others received partial or no restrictions.

(The list of 16 companies not allowed to add new customers includes the Ohio Fuel Gas company, which serves the Mansfield area.)

The tightening of gas restrictions followed a two-day inquiry last week into the commission's order of April 1, 1948, which restricted gas companies from accepting new space heating consumers unless they could service them from existing reserves.

The new order, effective today, permits two other companies to accept a limited number of additional space heating customers. Two other companies, which have private supplies of natural gas, were placed under no restrictions.

This order continues with certain modifications the commission's existing ruling restricting gas sales.

"No distributing utility shall be required to furnish or supply natural gas to any new or prospective consumer for space heating," the commission's order read, "until such consumer shall have first made written application to and have obtained from such utility written authorization for such use."

Each gas utility was instructed to submit monthly reports to the

Airlift Can Keep Going

BERLIN — (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the United States and Britain can keep up their airlift to blockaded Berlin for two years if need be.

"If it is necessary to continue the airlift until economic recovery restores the stability of Europe we certainly can do so indefinitely—two years if necessary," the American military governor told newsmen.

Meanwhile, Berlin city officials told reporters last night that municipal elections will not be held Nov. 14 as scheduled, because the Russians have refused to permit the printing of posters and election regulations in the Soviet sector.

The anti-communist city assembly decided Sept. 6 to hold municipal elections. The decision was opposed by both the German communists and the Russians.

The Soviet air force staged parachute jumps near the Hamburg-Berlin airlift corridor today, resulting in a sharp British protest.

Russian fliers jumped from an altitude of about 2,500 feet near Nauen, west of Berlin.

This city is near the point where the Bueckeberg-Ketzin and Hamburg-Berlin air corridors meet.

Petitions Oppose Plant Rebuilding

LORAIN —(INS)— Lorain's city council was considering petitions today demanding that the Brush Berrylium company, recently damaged by a $350,000 fire, be refused a permit to rebuild its plant.

The petitions, containing more than 600 signatures, charged that harmful fumes were emitted by the plant and irreparable damage would continue if the plant's operation was not abated.

Labor Board Has Hearing

GALION —(INS)—Sixty persons were subpoenaed to appear today before a national labor relations board hearing in Galion on unfair labor practices charges filed in connection with last year's strike at the North Electric company.

The charges were filed both by the company and by the CIO-United Automobile Workers, who called the strike from Aug. 20 to Nov. 1, 1947.

The union charged the company with domination of an independent union, while the company charges included intimidation and coercion of employes.

The strike was highlighted Oct. 23 when 325 employes were kept in the plant for nine hours by aroused union pickets who would give no assurance of safe passage. Governor Herbert then intervened and effected a settlement.

Howard Myers, of Washington, D. C., is acting as the NLRB's examiner. Paul Fusco, Cleveland, is NLRB prosecutor. The union is represented by Lowell Goerlick, Toledo and Fred A. Burkhalter, Cleveland.

Witnesses called in this morning's opening hearing were Richard Brentlinger, Galion, a company employe; Mrs. Rosie Billeter, Mt. Gilead, an employe of the company at their Mt. Gilead plant; and Mrs. Linnette Towl, a member of the Inlependent Workers union.

Harvard Now Renowned as Kennel Of Frankfurter's Happy Hot Dogs

WASHINGON—Harvard: Harvard: Harvard:

Once a glorious name in American culture and patriotism—even in football in the naive days of the nose-guard, amateurism and the ivy league—Harvard is more renowned today as the kennel of Felix Frankfurter's happy hot dogs. The whole extent of their influence on American destiny will never be known. Like slinking figures in an underworld movie, they fade into mists and reappear elsewhere.

Alger Hiss, who was accused of membership in a circle called an "apparatus" by his old friend, Whittaker Chambers, the ex-communist who became a senior editor of Time magazine, is not just typical. Mr. Hiss is special.

He managed to escape the draft from Pearl Harbor to V-J day, and finally some power planted him with Franklin D. Roosevelt, by then feeble in mind and body, and V. M. Molotov, at the Yalta conference.

★

There, with Mr. Frankfurter's prize protege to guide his failing mentality, Roosevelt signed over the Balkans, the Baltic, the Orient—oh, why quibble about it?—signed over the world to Josef Stalin and the Kremlin. By fighting Russia for it, Americans may win back title to their share of the world. But the little happy hot dog won't be there. Fighting is for dumb Americans.

Alger Hiss swore that he never had been a communist. Chambers swore that Hiss was a communist and was however, a member of a special communist group called an apparatus, and that the apparatus had the special purpose of doing missionary work for communism within the government.

Now, when Alger Hiss was brought down to Washington to testify before the awkward and vulgar but always patriotic committee on un-American activities, he readily reeled off his background—down to a point. Then he choked. He stalled. He whined for mercy. They were demanding that he pronounce the esoteric, mysterious, powerful name of Felix Frankfurter. This was profanation.

This is the way the examination ran:

Residence, 22 East Eighth St., New York; born, Baltimore, 1904. Not a communist. Never followed the line. No communist friends.

He had been an assistant to Judge Jerome Frank, also, of course, a happy hot dog, in fact so happy and so hot that Frankfurter recommended him to Rex Tugwell for one of those influential jobs in the AAA.

Q. (By Robert Stripling, chief investigator of the committee) will you now give the committee a brief resume of your federal employment?

2. My first employment came immediately after my graduation from law school (meaning Harvard law under Frankfurter). Then I served as a secretary to one of the associate justices of the Supreme court. I then went into private practice and came to Washington at the request of government officials (plural—note that) in May, 1933, (the first year of the New Deal and the communist penetration) as an assistant general counsel to the agricultural adjustment administration.

Q. (By Mr. Nixon) would you please give the names of the government officials who requested you to come to Washington with the AAA.

2. Yes. Judge Jerome Frank was general counsel. He requested me to come to Washington to be an assistant on his staff.

Q. (By Mr. Nixon) You said it in the plural. Was he the only one, then?

A. (Beginning to squirm) There were some others. Is it necessary? There are so many witnesses who use names rather loosely before your committee and I would rather limit myself.

Q. I would like to have a direct answer.

A. Another official of the government of the United States who strongly urged me to come to Washington—and I am answering this only because you ask it—was Justice Felix Frankfurter.

That dodging and pleading to be allowed to leave Frankfurter's name out of it is very suspicious to me. But I wouldn't have had it otherwise because it tends to prove that they were acting in the dark, developing an invisible government of plants in important positions all the way to the fatal night at Yalta.

Lady-Friend of Nazi General Now Appears In French Ballet

GIRL FRIDAY'S NOTES—One of those Parisian ballet gals in Serge Lifar's not-so-hot show was the lady-friend of a Nazi General during the Paris Occupation . . . The reason you see so many mentions of the "Moscow Mule" drink is that Jerry Zerbe (the photographer to the Societicians) is exploiting it. Vodka mitt ginger-beer. Ish wunnerful, really ish. . . . Have we already said that the Trib radio critic John Crosbys expect another image? . . . I hear Tide, the business mag (owned by Raymond Rubicam), may be sold to the present managerial board. A group headed by Reginald Clough, editor. . . . Mary McCarty of "Small Wonder" (shouldn't that be spelled with two Ws?) phoned to say denk you. She's tepeeing at the Savoy-Plaza—where, I suppose, the plaza is all theirs.

★

The Countess Ettie von Wurmbrand Stuppach (her marriage to Clendennin Ryan ended quickly in an annulment scandal, after which she was deported) is now living in San Francisco under her latest name, Countess Berchold. She has been married four times since. . . . You said the other morning that Tito's friend (ahem) was former Met singer Zinka Milanov. Well, she's finally succeeded in getting her U. S. visa after a long-time try. . . . Saudi Arabian Prime Minister E. Gaafar visited Bill Bertolotti's Greenwich Village place in native garb recently. Later he returned in U. S. attire with several attendants. Sighting pretty Page Morton, who sings there, he sent his card advising he was at the Waldorf. On it was scribbled: "P. S. Call me Jim, BUT CALL ME!"

★

Morris Ernst's new book, "So Far So Good," is very interesting. He discusses a few columnists in an entire chapter. Harpster's is publisher. . . . I just caught up with Bob Sylvester's "Dream Street." This would make a corking movie, a genuine picture of Broadway. . . . The Invitation Club just sent us a nice big check for the Runyon Fund. . . . Isn't Louisville to get the next allocation—for its mobile unit? Don't forget the U. of Minnesota check about first week in Oct. . . . Cardinal Spellman was very pleased with the way you handled the Babe Ruth Memorial Drive Sunday night. Said so in a speech next day. . . . Does Dan Topping, boss of the N. Y. Yankees, know how greedy parking lot operators upped the fee to $2 per car 30 minutes before the big finale game with the Red Sox? . . . Rodents!

★

This is why all uptown buses now stop at odd-numbered streets and downtown buses at even-numbered ones. It's so automobiles and cabs can make right-hand turns without going around a parked bus, dammem. A rookie cop made the suggestion, I hear. It has shaved midtown tie-ups 25 p.c. . . . If you have any spare boosts for a newcomer, his name's Frank McInerney. Thrushes at Hogan's Irish House. . . . Society girl Martha Cuneo (of a rich Southern clan) broke off with her feller by leaving his ring (for him to pick up) at the Stork! Not a diamond; it's signet. . . . Those reports in the papers linking La-Belle Piaf with champ Marcel Cerdan, I hear, have reached Paree, where there merely happens to be a wife. . . . "Pat" Dane (ex-Mrs. T. Dorsey) is in luff mit a rich auto parts mfr. He's showing her the Ontario sights. . . . Achchelly saw this sign in a butcher's near 86th and Columbus Ave.: "Sirloin Steak: 11c per OUNCE!"

City Budget Request Cut 27 Per Cent

Sent To Workhouse

Crestliner Pleads Guilty to Charge

Henry Senn, Crestline, was sentenced to 180 days in the workhouse in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery brought by Miss Dorothy Horning, east of Crestline. Ninety days of the sentence were suspended on condition he leave the complainant alone.

Paul Bomer, 141 North Weldon avenue, was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond after he pleaded innocent and waived preliminary hearing to charges of malicious destruction of property.

He is charged with doing $200 worth of damage to the home of Mrs. Myrtle Hildebrand, 127 Glenwood Heights.

Jesse Curd, 106 East Sixth street, was fined $25 and costs for illegally dumping garbage at the city dump. The law stipulates that only inorganic (trash, tin cans, etc.) material may be deposited at the dump.

Ralph W. Hutchison, Youngstown, forfeited a $50 bond on a charge of driving an overloaded motor vehicle.

For failing to stop after an accident, Robert Leach, Mansfield, R. D. 5, was fined $75 and costs. A third of the fine was suspended on condition he pay damages to Louis Wolfe. Leach's driver's license was suspended for six months.

Otis Francis, Mansfield, R. D. 1, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail on an assault and battery charge brought by his wife.

Arnold Fleming, 116 Kentucky avenue was fined $5 for driving without a license.

Girl's Scream Alerts City Traffic Squad

Unaware that the entire traffic squad was alerted last night by a screaming girl in a red panel truck, Mansfield Police Officer Marion Hardesty had the report in and written before the search was completed.

Prompted by a phone call at 11:45 p. m. from Jason Leppo, Mansfield, R. D. 1, who said he saw a girl look out of the rear of a red panel truck at Fifth and Adams street and scream, all cruisers were dispatched in the direction. Leppo said two boys also were in the truck.

In the meantime, Clarence Boterf, who identified himself as the driver of the red truck to Officer Hardesty, said he had picked the girl up at Diamond and Fourth streets and that the girl, apparently intoxicated, decided she wanted to get out of the truck.

Hardesty's report of the case cancelled the search.

Plan County Youth Group

A committee has been appointed to formulate plans for the creation of a Youth Council, made up of representatives of Richland county's churches. No such council has functioned for several years.

Named to the committee at a meeting Sunday afternoon were Dick Van Voorhis, chairman; Emily Stephan, Pat Moore and Tom Swisher, of Mansfield, and Harold Robinson, of Lucas. The meeting was held at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church.

The meeting was attended by the presidents of the youth fellowships of all churches of Richland county. Van Voorhis presided at the meeting.

Van Voorhis said the committee is to work with the Mansfield Ministerial association and the Richland County Council of Churches to formulate plans for the Youth Council.

Auto, Truck Sales Down

Auto and truck sales and vehicle title transfers showed sharp declines in Richland county last month as compared with the August totals.

Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning reported that during September there were 1,743 title transfers. Of those, 214 represented new cars and 48 new trucks.

In August, there were 2,016 title transfers, of which 262 were for new cars and 54 for new trucks.

Chest Special Gifts Goal Set at $16,264

Thirty-seven of the 42 workers in the special gifts division of the Community Chest drive, which opens Oct. 18, were guests of Paul Tappan, co-chairman of the division, at a kick-off luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Monday.

The special gifts division will solicit contributions of $50 or more R. D. Isaly is the other co-chairman of the group and Charles E. Nau is vice chairman.

Tappan presided at the meeting and Isaly and W. E. Slabaugh jr., president of the Community Chest, were the speakers.

Isaly told the group that this year's goal for the special gifts division had been set at $16,264, an increase of seven per cent over the $15,200 which was contributed last year by 225 prospects.

He said this increase was the lowest percentage increase in the state of Ohio and one of the lowest in the nation. He added that Mansfield ranks lowest in the per cent of contributions of $100 or more of any city its size or larger.

SMALL PART OF TOTAL

To back up this statement Isaly pointed out that Mansfield's contributions of $100 or over were only 36 per cent of the total amount contributed last year. In comparison, Loram's contributions of $100 or over were 60 per cent of the total amount raised, Warren's 53½ per cent, Elyria's 61½ per cent, and Lima's more than 44 per cent.

Slabaugh discussed the 14 questions which are most frequently asked Community Chest solicitors and supplied the answers.

At the close of the meeting the workers were given their supplies and prospect cards.

Parole Board Here

Two hundred cases of the Mansfield reformatory and honor camp, were scheduled for hearing when the Ohio Pardon and Parole board convened today at the Mansfield reformatory. The board is expected to finish hearings Thursday.

Time Issue Off Ballot

The county board of elections last night ruled the Mansfield daylight time issue off the November ballot.

The action was expected since the election board found last Saturday that petitions to place the issue before voters did not contain enough signatures of qualified voters.

Under state law, the petitions had to contain 1,157 signatures to bring the proposal before voters in November.

The question of the annexation of part of Sharon township to Shelby was approved as a referendum to go on the ballot of Sharon township. The Shelby council passed the annexation measure Sept. 20.

Defective Flues Blamed In Fires

Defective chimney flues accounted for two home fires yesterday in the city—right in the middle of Fire Prevention Week.

At about 2:45 p. m., Central and No. 2 station firemen went to the home of George Ragan, 270 North Mulberry street, where a partition ignited.

No. 2 station firemen began a three-hour battle at 4:50 p. m. at the home of Model Bridges, 23 King street, where an overheated chimney set fire to clothing and furniture on the second floor. Firemen said considerable loss was involved.

Phoenix Hotel Sold

Sale of the Phoenix hotel, 323-329 North Main street, was revealed today with the recording of a warranty deed in the office of the Richland county recorder.

The hotel was purchased by Catherine Miller from C. S. and Levina Fox. In another transaction, Catherine Miller and Michael Miller sold an apartment house at 547-555 Crescent road to Claude I. and Paul N. Watts, according to second recorded deed.

Claude Watts, who with his brother, Paul, operated the Phoenix hotel for the past four years, said they had sold the hotel business to take over operation of the four-family apartment house on Crescent road.

Mansfield Man Struck By Car

Richard M. Dodson, 34, of 290 North Main street, suffered head injuries last night when struck by a car on North Adams street. His condition was described as good today in General hospital.

Police said Dodson was struck by a car driven by John C. Snouffer, 604 Wooster road. Snouffer told officers he did not see the pedestrian until he heard a bump and saw Dodson fall. Snouffer said he was traveling 10 miles per hour.

Officers reported the accident occurred at 7:15 p. m.

Council To Act Tonight

Only $554,655 Available

The county budget commission has slashed the requested Mansfield 1949 budget by 27 per cent.

The city had drawn up a budget for estimated expenditures in departments drawing money from the general fund totaling $761,096, but the budget commission reduced the figure by $206,441, because estimates tax receipts due the city in 1949 and destined for the general fund are expected to total only $554,655.

The revised budget will be placed before city council tonight for its approval. If council feels that the city has not been granted a fair share of the estimated tax receipts, it can reject the budget and appeal to the state tax commission. This action, however, has never been taken.

The real effect of the slash will be felt in January when council begins to draw up the 1949 appropriation bill. It must cut the budget for general fund appropriations from $761,000 down to $544,000.

REVENUE UP

This year's large slash is not the result of reduced receipts; in fact, estimated 1949 receipts are up $62,174 over this year.

The cut is to the fact that the city drew up the largest budget in history, and tax receipts, from general property taxes and cigarette, liquor, sales, inheritance and other taxes are not expected to rise that much.

The requested 1948 budget was $510,761. It was reduced by only $18,280, to $492.48; the total estimated receipts for general fund purposes.

Estimated receipts for next year have increased by $62,176, due mainly to new construction.

Real estate taxes are assessed on the 1940-41 price level when prices were considerably lower than they are today. The city's big problem, therefore, is to operate its government on tax receipts based on the 1940-41 level, while costs are almost double.

Paris Water Supply Cut

PARIS —(UP)— Parisian housewives filled their bathtubs with water today to meet a one-way warning strike of waterworks employes who have joined more than 500,000 French workers in demanding government wage increases.

Representatives of the waterworks union said that distribution had been stopped at 6 a. m. for 12 hours. Service was continued, however, to hospitals and armed service establishments.

The waterworks employes were among 200,000 garbage collectors and other government workers who went on a warning strike in demand for the same 15 per cent pay increase Premier Henri Queuille granted to private industry workers.

The strike movement started yesterday when 350,000 workers in the nationalized French mines walked out, most of them under direction of the Communist-controlled General Workers Confederation (CGT).

Sons of Italy To Mark Anniversary

Members of the Order Sons of Italy, Mansfield lodge, will observe their 25th anniversary and Columbus Day with a banquet and dance Monday, Oct. 11, at 7:30 p. m. at the Fairway.

Rev. William O'Donnell, Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Cleveland, will be the guest speaker.

The sale of tickets is limited, but tickets may be purchased at the clubrooms, 37½ West Fifth street. No tickets will be sold at the door. Those desiring transportation are to meet at the clubrooms no later than 7 p. m.

Motor Corps Meets

The Red Cross Motor corps will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at the Chapter house on Park avenue west, it was announced.

Chorus Makes Dr. Hoffman Life Member of Organization

Dr. F. A Hoffman, pianist for the Mastersingers, was given an honorary life membership in the organization at its annual dinner last night.

The membership was in recognition of Dr. Hoffman's services since the organization of the chorus in 1946. It was presented with tributes from A. Lemoine Derr, director; Perry Milliken, Louis Jisa and Attorney Charles Freehafer, who spoke of the loyalty and service of Dr. Hoffman, not only as pianist, but also as concert manager for the group.

The dinner, held in the Undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church, was attended by 66 members. Election of officers followed the dinner with A. C. Schroeder chosen president and Frank Daniels vice president. Both C. H. Platt as treasurer and Cecil Schill as secretary, were returned to office.

Following the election and presentation to Dr. Hoffman, movies of the Lake Chautauqua engagement this summer were shown and records of the concerts given there were played. In addition, vocal numbers were presented by C. L. Kantzer, of Bucyrus.

The Mastersingers go to Bucyrus for a concert on Oct. 19, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club of that city. Tickets may be obtained here from Edward Young, member of the Mastersingers.

Bobby Feller Gets First Series Hill Call

Redskin Ball Fans Go Crazy

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND — (AP) — This lakefront city, after biting its fingernails down to the second knuckle the last few weeks as the Indians dilly-dallied in their attempt to the American League pennant, was a debris-littered mess today.

A celebration, set off by the 8-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday in the American League's first sudden death playoff, lasted into the wee, small hours.

To a casual visitor, not knowing the pent up emotions of the oft-frustrated Cleveland fans who have been denied a pennant since 1920, the celebration—a swashbuckling, noisy affair—must have resembled the Armistice day blowout.

The hotels were the first to take action as the final score winged in. They immediately cleared their lobbies of furniture. And it was a good thing they did, for a few minutes later a flock of bands, generally headed by some big guy beating a bass drum, roared in.

★

SNAKE DANCES were a dime a dozen, but pennants bearing the legend "Cleveland Indians, 1948 World Series Champs," were a buck per copy. Practically everyone had one.

In every bar and grill the pennants were table centerpieces, stuck in empty beer bottles. Folk dances were staged around them, with some of the highball-bearing customers bowling low to the flags and offering sundry toasts to the team.

One custom, which has a chance to catch on and gain a foothold out here, was inaugurated. Utter strangers, mostly of the younger set, planted kisses on the unresisting lips of many of the pennant-waving gals. It looked like a combination of an American Legion convention and the New Orleans Mardi Gras. Everybody had fun.

At least a thousand citizens, decked out as squaws and braves in blankets, painted faces and feathered headpieces, roamed the streets and avenues, all snouting for their Tribe. Sound trucks played dance records at the principal intersections and there was dancing in the streets.

★

IN EVERY BAR, night club, saloon, tavern and grill there were quartets which insisted on singing such songs as "Take Me Out To The Ball Game."

In fact, the only discordant notes in the entire celebration were some struck by the well-lubricated quarters, but no one seemed to care—especially the quartets.

Congressman George H. Bender was observed strolling up Euclid avenue at the height of the din. That was shortly after midnight. The legislator had a large bell in one hand—the same bell he used at the GOP National convention.

Out on Lorain avenue a storekeeper erased from his window a whitewash sign he has displayed for days while the Indians seemed uncertain about grabbing the flag. The sign said:

"Customers: If I appear irritated, give you short answers and develop a flock of ulcers, don't blame me. Blame those Indians."

Only Right Pick

NEW YORK—(UP)—Mike Gaven of the New York Journal American today was receiving congratulations as the only baseball writer to pick the Cleveland Indians as the American league pennant winner in a poll conducted by the United Press last spring.

Bearden's Winner In Playoff Tilt

BOSTON —(AP)— Cleveland's newly-crowned American league champs, still walking on thin air after their playoff success, have named Bobby Feller to face Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves in tomorrow's World Series opener at Braves Field.

Rapid Robert will have to go hard to top the performance of young Gene Bearden in yesterday's 8-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox in an unprecedented sudden death playoff of a tie.

Today the Indians and Braves settle down to plans for a series that must come as an anti-climax to the Indians. It won't come as any anti-climax to their pocketbooks.

The big Cleveland ball park with its 85,000 capacity is certain to set a new series record.

If it goes seven games despite the size of Braves Field which holds only 40,000 bulging at the seams, a new record cut for the winning players may result. It's certain to be many thousands of dollars more than an all-Boston series would have provided.

SECOND BASER

Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves is expected to make his decision on his second base starter after a morning drill. Eddie Stanky, still slightly handicapped by the broken ankle he suffered in July, and Sibby Sisti, who filled in capably, are the candidates.

Working with only one full day of rest after shutting out Detroit Saturday, Bearden silenced the guns of the fence-denting Red Sox in their own ball yard to gain Cleveland's first American league flag since 1920.

He did it with a little of this and a little of that—but mostly his knuckle ball. He threw the dipsy-doodler four out of every five pitches. The knuckler got him home. Parlayed with the raw courage that brought him back to baseball from Pacific war action with aluminum plates in his head and left knee.

HITTING STAR

Manager Lou Boudreau was the hitting star of his own team's sensational triumph with two homers and two singles.

If any man ever deserved a most valuable player trophy it's Lou.

Forget all the figures that show him scrambling around on taped ankles to become the best shortstop in the game. Even forget the batting averages for the season during which he chased Ted Williams right down to the wire. Just look at yesterday's ball game.

After a first inning homer he came up in the fourth inning with the score tied at 1-1, and slashed a single to left. Joe Gordon followed with a single and Ken Keltner banged a homer. Before it was over, four runs were in and Galehouse had been replaced by Ellis Kinder.

SLAMS 2ND HOMER

Not content with a 5-1 lead, Boudreau slammed another homer into the screen atop the left field wall with two gone and nobody on in the fifth.

In the seventh he was walked intentionally in a raly that finally sputtered out with the bases full. Again in the ninth, Boudreau's single helped push around Eddie Robinson with the final score of a game that was fast becoming a rout.

Boudreau also took part in two of the three Tribal double plays. He made you forget that other stars like Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr were on the field.

Notre Dame Club Is Back On Top of College Poll

NEW YORK — (AP) — Notre Dame has renewed its lease on the No. 1 spot in college football's Big Ten..

On top of the heap at the end of the last campaign, the Fighting Irish moved right back into their penthouse in the first Associated Press poll of the new season.

One hundred and fifty-three sports writers from throughout the country gave Frank Leahy's proteges a total of 1,200 points—enough for a squeaking edge over rampant North Carolina and surprising Northwestern.

Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second and on down the line.

North Carolina, which has rolled over Texas and Georgia, received more first place votes than the Irish—55 to 50—but fell 10 points short in the overall balloting with 1,190.

Northwestern, conqueror of UCLA and Purdue, was in third place with 1,025—the only other team to record more than a thousand.

Notre Dame's accomplishments for the young year include a 28-27 triumph over Purdue and a 40-0 rout of Pittsburgh.

Southern Methodist's southwest conference champions placed fourth in the opening poll, followed by Army, Georgia Tech, Michigan, Minnesota, California and Penn State in order.

The top ten at the end of last year were Notre Dame, Michigan, Southern Methodist, Penn State, Texas, Alabama, Pennsylvania.

John Simpson Host to Ram Reserve Team

The first junior high school game of the season at Arlin field will be played at 8 p. m. tomorrow when John Simpson is host to the Madison reserves of Coach Blaine Dowler.

The Little Rams will be making their first start of the season while Simpson has two games under its belt, losing to Alliance Broadway junior high, 14-0, but running over Norwalk St. Paul's varsity, 38-0.

Dowler, blessed with an unusually large squad, has another game carded Thursday. Madison will be host to the Shelby high reserve team in a 4 p. m. contest at Ram field.

Johnny Appleseed's undefeated Pioneers will also be active Thursday, as they are scheduled to visit the Mt. Vernon reserves in quest of their fifth consecutive victory. Appleseed defeated Mt. Vernon, 19-0, two weeks ago at stadium field.

Rough Bears Rip Cards Apart In National, 28-17

(By United Press)

The rough, tough Chicago Bears today were sharing the Western division lead of the National Football league with the Los Angeles Rams after their latest "revenge" victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

The Bears, who were knocked out of the Western title last year by their city rivals, made up for past indignities last night when they pasted the Cardinals, 28 to 17. A record Chicago professional football crowd of 52,765 watched the Bears pull the game out of the fire in the third period, thus sending the Cardinals down to their first defeat in nine games.

The Cardinals went ahead, 17 to 14, in the third period on a 36-yard aerial from Ray Mallouf to Babe Dimancheff. But Frank Minini then lugged back Ventan Yablonski's subsequent kickoff 95 yards for what proved to be the Bears' decisive touchdown.

Grade School Football Loop Opens Wednesday

Mansfield's 1948 grade school touch football program will open with two games tomorrow afternoon and two Thursday.

Bowman meets Grubaugh at John Simpson and Newman plays Bushnell at Tappan field in the opening contests. Thursday, Woodland goes against Hedges at Johnny Appleseed and Carpenter plays at Prospect.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

BOSTON—Ray Andrews, 135, Lowell, Mass. decisioned Thomas Beato, 131½, San Domingo, 10.

PHILADELPHIA—Buddy Garcia, 138½, Galveston, Tex., decisioned Jimmy Collins 135, Philadelphia 10.

Commercial 'C' Has Keen Competition

Competition was keen — if not brilliant—in the Commercial "C" bowling league at the Colony alleys last night.

No less than eight bowlers were sandwiched between the 550 and 590 marks, with Russ Cross leading the parade with 242-177-170—589. His opening game was far and away the best single game of the session.

Just two pins behind was Al Baki, the Gorman-Rupp softball player, who had 203-170-214—587. Other top-flight scores were turned in by Bob Hilborn, 582; Bill Barnes, 578; Charles Bauer, 573; Dick Metcalf, 565; Steve Stirtzinger, 559; and Paul Jewell, 556.

The Barnes Meat Market team turned in an unusually fine job as all five members were well above the 500 mark. Barnes had a 2758 total.

★

Bob Hilborn led the Club league with a 588 series comprised of games of 197, 177 and 214. Bob Lynch was runnerup with 180-207-182—569. Garrison had 557 and Reggie Bookman, 551.

★

Comparatively, the best bit of bowling of the night was turned in by Evelyn Marshman in the Women's Variety league as she cut wood for a 151-191-197—539 series. Martha Dye was runnerup with 144-168-149—461, while Evelyn Schindler had 448.

★

Paul Offenburger paced Gorman-Rupp bowlers with a 518 series on games of 196, 172, and 150. William Cykajlo was the only other man going above the 500 mark as he hit for 501.

★

Two Mansfield Tire league girls went over 400. Helen Hazen rolled 157-117-134—408, while Eva Marvicsin had 403.

★

No honor roll scores were rolled in the Richland Recreation leagues, but manager Dale Cleckner came the closest as he posted a 592 in the Richland "A" league. Dale had single games of 174, 225, and 193. W. Cleckner was only one pin behind on total with 591 and he took single game honors with a 236 middle game score.

Other good marks in the "A" loop included a 560 by H. E. Williams, and a 536 by Glenn Yingling.

Jack Menke of the News-Journal paced Richland C league keglers with a 152-190-197—539 series. Harry Rist was runner-up with 530 while Gene Rudolph had 525.

Massillon Is Rated Tops In Ohio Grid

By JOHN BARRINGTON, INS Sports Writer

The suicide schedule presented to lanky Chuck Mather when he accepted employment as Massillon high school's grid coach really begins to get poisonous this week end.

The Tigers, currently rated as the state's most impressive team in the INS poll of sports experts, clash with Steubenville's Big Red, ranked a solid fourth by the same pollsters.

Neither the Tigers nor the Big Red has been defeated this year. Massillon jolted Youngstown South, 28 to 7, Friday and Steubenville downed Lorain, 20 to 12.

THE BIG TEN

1. Massillon (3-0).
2. Canton McKinley (3-0).
3. Toledo Waite (3-0).
4. Steubenville (3-0).
5. Hamilton (3-0).
6. Alliance (3-0).
7. Middletown (3-0-1).
8. Toledo Scott (3-0).
9. Cincinnati Western Hills (3-0).
10. Columbus West (3-0).

After the Big Red, Massillon's path is strewn with such obstacles as Alliance, Mansfield, Warren, Toledo Waite, Barberton and Canton McKinley on successive weekends.

AMONG TOP TEN

Alliance, Waite and McKinley currently are rated among Ohio's ten best. Barberton was the nominal Buckeye champion a year ago, and Warren also was a member of last year's select list.

McKinley, as close as a wet shirt to Massillon, defeated Canton Timken, 18 to 0, Saturday with Halfback John Colceri scoring two touchdowns to bring his three game total to 56 points.

Alliance sparked East Liverpool, 32 to 0, in a game featured by Halfback "Candy" Carroll's sweet 85-yard scoring jaunt.

Toledo Waite and Toledo Scott moved toward a possible Thanksgiving day showdown. They meet in a traditional turkey day contest and at present shape up as principal threats for the city crown.

TOLEDO SCRAPS

Waite scored two touchdowns in the last quarter to defeat Libbey, 16 to 0, and Scott downed central Catholic, 20 to 12, after a stiff scrap.

Halfbacks Jim Bailey and Jack Gordon sparked Hamilton Public to a 44 to 0 victory over Chillicothe for its third in a row. Bailey galloped 63 to 74 yards for scores and Gordon made touchdown dashes from 70 to 54 yards out.

Middletown, tied by Newark, capitalized on two fumbles and an intercepted pass to defeat a dangerous but luckless Lima South, 26 to 6. Lima Central was more fortunate, scoring in the last period to nip Columbus North, 6 to 0.

Little World Series Opens

ST. PAUL, Minn. —(AP)— The holder of the year's best pitching record in the International league will be on the mound when Montreal meets St. Paul tonight in the opener of the Little World Series.

Clay Hopper, manager of the pennant — and play-off-winning Royals, will go along with Don Newcombe. Newcombe, a sensational negro righthander, racked up a 17-6 record and took percentage honors for the league.

Manager Walt Alston will rely on the long right arm of Pat McGlothin, author of a no-hitter against Milwaukee toward the end of the regular season, to defend the Saints' American association playoff championship.

Attractive Program

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Bill Veeck, doing things in his usual "big" way, will offer to World Series fans one of the most attractive souvenir programs ever printed when the fall classic moves into Cleveland stadium.

Ram-Orrville Game Called 'No Contest'

The Madison High - Orrville game of last Friday will definitely stand as "no contest," Madison Principal Wayne Miller announced today, following a telephone conversation with Ohio high school Athletic Commissioner H. W. Emswiler.

The game was stopped by a light failure with over eight minutes to go and Orrville, the host team, leading 19-12. Orrville claimed a victory, but Miller, representing Coach Ennis Walker, called Emswiler for a ruling.

The commissioner voiced an opinion that the two schools should get together in a decision or replay. He said, however, that as far as he was concerned, it was no contest, since official time had not been completed.

Miller revealed that there was little chance of a replay.

Madison will travel to Rittman this week in quest of its third victory. Rittman was beaten 41-0, by Orrville, two weeks ago.

Ball Celebration Could Be Costly

SHELBY — A suggested Cleveland Indian baseball celebration yesterday would have cost Shelby money.

A rapid Tribe follower yesterday phoned Mayor William Morris requesting him to blow the whistle on the light plant in honor of Cleveland's pennant winning. The mayor said there was no whistle on the light plant but he'd consider blowing the fire siren—except for one thing.

The city would have to pay out $3.00 for each volunteer responding to the call.

Morningstar Will Rejoin Tyger Team

Ailing Augie Morningstar, the peaked Tyger skipper, was to rejoin his team in practice this afternoon after having been confined to his Garfield place home since last Thursday.

Old man influenza has had the Bengal chief under wraps, and his only sojurn from the house was to be on the sidelines at last Friday night's game with Sandusky.

Morningstar said this morning that he would lead the club through a scrimmage this afternoon and resume teaching tomorrow.

Line coach Paul Snyder sent the Tygers through a two-hour session yesterday with the time divided between offensive and defensive work. He reported no serious injuries from Friday night's game, although several members of the team are bothered by bad colds.

NO TICKETS YET

Tickets for Friday's game at Portsmouth have not been received as yet according to ticket manager George Sherman although he said that 150 had been ordered. Numerous requests will probably cause him to issue another order today or tomorrow, he said.

Massillon tickets were the big issue at the school yesterday, as some 2,200 of them were quickly sold out at Moorheads. A total of 12,500 reserved seats have now been sold and standing room tickets will continue on sale until Sherman beleves the park is full.

Meanwhile the Tyger sophomores were making last minute preparations for tonight's trip to Bucyrus—the first sophomore game in two years. The sophs will meet the Bucyrus reserves at 8 p. m. on the Bucyrus high field.

Vern Hoffman is coaching the Senior high sophs.

Indians Favored

BOSTON — (UP) — Among men who know their baseball best, the fellows who cover games season-long from the press boxes, the Cleveland Indians today were voted an overwhelming favorite to win the World Series from the Boston Braves.

Yank Job Open; Harris Gets Axe

NEW YORK — (AP) — The job of leading the fabulous New York Yankees is open again today for the fourth time since 1946.

Stanley (Bucky) Harris, who piloted the Yanks to third place this season after bossing them to the American league pennant and a world series triumph in 1947, is out in the cold.

The move, which came as no surprise, was made yesterday after a conference among Yankee president Dan Topping, general manager George Weiss and Harris.

In a terse announcement, the Yanks said the decision not to renew Harris' contract was by "mutual agreement." The new manager will be selected at a future date, the announcement added, and the several candidates do not include "a player active with the 1948 team."

Rumors had Harris on the way out for quite some time and the guess was that either Joe DiMaggio or Tommy Henrich, veteran outfielders, would take over.

Among those believed to be considered for the job are Jim Turner, former Yankee pitcher, and Bill Skiff, who led the Yanks' Newark International league farm club last year.

Turner has been at the helm of the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast league the past two seasons. He is credited with developing Vic Raschi a 19-game winner for the Yanks this year.

Another possibility is Chuck Dressen, one-time manager of the Cincinnati Reds and now coach of the Yanks.

Harris joined the Yanks in 1946 in an executive capacity under Larry MacPhail. During that season, Joe McCarthy, Bill Dickey and Johnny Neun piloted the Yanks.

After Neun was released at the end of the season Harris was persuaded to relinquish his executive post and don the managerial flannels for 1947. MacPhail's last year in the Yankee picture.

Harris, 51 years old, began his organized baseball career with Muskegon in the Central league in 1916. He advanced to the majors as a second baseman with Washington in 1919.

Parties Lack Division On Top Issues

Republicans Stick To Unity Campaign

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Truman seems to have convinced himself that the character of the campaign by Mr Dewey and Mr Warren is smart but unsportsmanlike They ought, he feels, to fight, to create burning issues between the two parties, and not to spend their time trying to unite the country behind an administration which is as good as elected.

But the style of the Dewey-Warren campaign would not be smart politics if, as between the two parties, there really were burning issues. If the country were sharply divided on great domestic or foreign questions, the issues could not be kept out of the campaign.

The fact is that there are grave problems But to these problems the Republicans as a party do not have one set of answers and the Democrats as a party another set of answers That holds not only in the field of foreign policy In domestic policy, as one can see from reading in the current issue of "Fortune" magazine, what is presumably a quite accurate account of Mr Dewey's economic views, there is no fundamental conflict of doctrine—no ideological conflict remotely comparable with that which separates the parties say in France, or even in Britain

Mr Truman's own campaign is the best evidence He is not campaigning against Dewey and Warren at all but against the Hoover administration and the Eightieth Congress But the record of the Eightieth Congress was made while he, not Mr Dewey, was President, and the main charges he brings against the record deal with things that could never have been done if the Democrats, of whom he is the nominal leader, had followed his leadership

The reason Mr Truman is not campaigning against Dewey and Warren is that then he would have to meet the real and the determining issue in this election The issue is not progressivism versus reaction, liberalism versus conservatism.

The claim that Mr Truman and Mr. Snyder, and the White House coterie are more progressive and more liberal than Mr Dewey, Mr Warren, Mr Vandenberg, Mr Stassen, and their closest advisers and supporters is a palpable absurdity For the slogans and battle cries which Mr Truman is using in the campaign have almost no connection with the actual prejudices, practices, and habits of thought of his own cronies

The real and determining issue is whether the country is to have a President in fact, not merely in name. The country has perhaps by this time realized that Mr Truman is not exercising the powers of his office.

His long absence from Washington during this period of intense international crisis is the outward and visible proof of the real state of affairs in Washington For the first time since Harding the powers and responsibility of the Presidency are not actually in the hands of the man who occupies the office.

Where then are the powers and the responsibility? The answer is that they are distributed loosely and casually in bits and pieces all over the government departments and bureaus and agencies

Co-ordination and central direction, such as it is, is achieved by interdepartmental groups and committees, trying sometimes successfully, often in vain, to work out among themselves a temporary substitute for that central judgment and decision which, in our system of government, only the President can provide

Oregon Republican Senator Predicts Labor Law Change

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sen Wayne Morse (R-Ore) predicted today that a Republican-controlled congress will revise the Taft-Hartley labor law next year

Morse said he expects the law to be amended to eliminate the restrictions on union shops, and the provisions making unions subject to injunctions and damage suits by employers.

He said the only "big stick" needed to keep unions in line is to refuse them national labor relations board recognition if they violate the board's regulations or orders

Several employers have told him Morse said that they had been 'sold a pig in a poke" on the damage-suit provision of the Taft-Hartley law

Morse sets out today to campaign for GOP congressional candidates Starting in Kentucky, he will stump Massachusetts, Michigan Ohio and Pennsylvania, winding up the swing with speeches in Washington state Oct 28 and 29

Power Plan Studied By Commission

Project Proposed On St. Lawrence

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The federal power commission opened hearings Monday on the proposed $463,374 000 international St Lawrence river power project with arguments whether the commission can approve it without an act of Congress

The commission, in calling the hearing, has taken the position that it has authority over such projects on streams where "Congress has jurisdiction."

But William Howe, counsel for the national St Lawrence project conference, opposing the proposed joint Canadian-New York state enterprise, argued the commission has no jurisdiction

Howe said the commission cannot issue a license to the New York power authority to construct its half of the project in co-operation with the Ontario hydro-electric power commission

Charles M. Goetz, counsel for the New York power authority, supported the federal power commission's stand

Howe argued that project backed by New York Gov Thomas F Dewey would require an agreement "between the Dominion of Canada and New York state or their agents' and therefore requires "the express approval of Congress."

Air Pilot's Skill Saves Lives of 23

Puts Plane Down On Narrow Beach

MIAMI, Fla. —(U.P.)— Nineteen homeward bound Puerto Ricans and three air crew members today owed their lives to a daring pilot who belly-landed a DC-3 passenger plane on a strip of Bahamas beach narrower than the 95-foot wingspread of his stricken craft.

Richard R. Olivere, 28-year-old pilot of the chartered plane, called the amazing landing in the predawn darkness "just routine."

Coast guard planes brought the 23 persons here last night from tiny Haines key, where they waited 17 hours for rescuers after Olivere set the plane down nearly out of fuel. Not one suffered so much as a scratch.

The Puerto Ricans, waiters and farmers returning home from New York, hoped to charter another plane here to continue their trip when the threat of an approaching Caribbean hurricane subsides.

Lt. W. N. Durham of St. Petersburg, Fla., pilot of one of the rescue planes, said Olivere's emergency landing was "a marvelous job."

Durham estimated that the strip of beach was only 75 feet wide, 20 feet narrower than the wingspread of the DC-3. On one side was the sea and on the other a jagged coral ledge

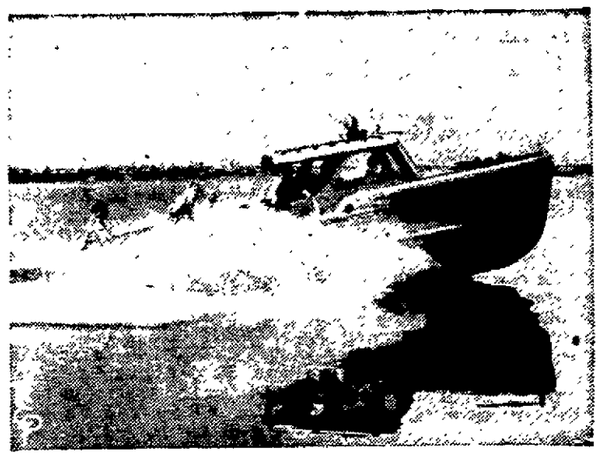
It was such a tight fit that one wing of the plane tipped into the water when the craft ground to a stop after sliding 600 feet on its belly in the sand.

Olivere said he was heading for Miami from Teterboro, N. J., to refuel before continuing to San Juan, Puerto Rico, when he realized shortly after midnight yesterday that his plane had drifted far off course.

When he saw islands below he knew where he was and decided he would run out of gas before he could reach Nassau so he decided to try the landing.

"We were fortunate," he said. "I made a pass at the beach and dropped flares. They didn't work. So I used my landing lights. The beach was just wide enough to get in."

Two coast guard flying boats raced against darkness and an approaching hurricane last night to reach the group and bring them here. The rescued passengers were taken from the beach to the planes in life rafts.



NEW CRAFT TESTED—New plastic boat developed for the U. S. Navy roars down the Delaware river near the Philadelphia naval base in a trial run. The 28-foot craft is claimed to have many advantages over plywood boats because the plastic hull is non-absorbent, rotproof, insect-proof, weatherproof and leakproof. (INS).

Head of Galion Street Department 80 Years Old

GALION — Willard A. Frank, superintendent of the Galion street department for a number of years, yesterday quietly observed his 80th birthday anniversary at his home, 415 Sherman street. Unable to work for the past four months, and now confined to his bed, he was cheered Sunday when city employes presented him with a gift of $80, a dollar for each year, and a large bouquet of flowers.

Born in Galion, Frank moved with his parents during his boyhood to Crestline. He lived here until his marriage to Flora D. Arter of Crestline, and then he and his bride moved to Galion.

At one time he worked in the Erie Railroad shops here as a machinist, later going into the grocery business. The Smith and Frank grocery was operated on the public square for a number of years. After that he became associated in the Rayle and Frank garage business.

Prior to becoming street superintendent, Frank was service director of the city for a time.

He and his wife are active members of First Methodist church. They have one daughter, Mrs. Carl Shaw of Galion; five grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Galion Club Season Open

GALION — Reception of the Federation of Women's clubs was held Monday night at the American Legion Home, opening the literary club season in Galion.

Fall flowers attractively decorated the club rooms. Approximately 80 members of the eight literary clubs which are affiliated with the federation were greeted by the federation president, Mrs. L. A. Cline.

Mrs. Glen Quay, program chairman, presented the Crawford County Children's home chorus under the direction of Marvin O. Adams, superintendent of the home. Mrs. Charles Hinckley was at the piano for accompaniment. The group sang several numbers. A book review given by Mrs. Ralph Spaid concluded the program.

The refreshment hour was in charge of Mrs. E. R. Pickering. Decorations were in charge of Mrs. Lester Ritz.

Clubs affiliated with the federation are the Current News, Research, Tourist, Round Table, Progress, Arts and Crafts, Fortnightly, and the Timely Topics.

Ohio Staters To Battle Iowa

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Not quite believing it all, Ohio State university's football boys today are staring back at their two big wins and then staring ahead to the next job—Iowa.

The Hawkeyes come to Ohio Stadium Saturday to see if the Buckeyes have got it or are just a flash in the pan.

Coach Wesley Fesler of the Bucks puts the problem this way:

"Knowing the state of Ohio as I do, I know that suddenly we're going to be built into a great team just because we've won two games. And we definitely are not a great ball club—not by any stretch of the imagination."

Bill Nicholson Traded To Phils

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Hard-hitting Bill Nicholson came to the Philadelphia Phillies today in a trade which sent Harry (The Hat) Walker to the Chicago Cubs.

Nicholson is the Phillies' hope for a third long-ball hitter to team up with Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn in the Bluejays' outfield.

Churchman Declares Cities Need Spiritual Leadership

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Cities expanding without spiritual leadership face paganism and disaster, Methodist church leaders were told today

Dr. Leonard Oechsli of South Pasadena, Calif., declared that the "vast migration of people into new urban centers" in recent years had created grave dangers as well as opportunities for the nation and the church.

"The real problem," he said in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Methodist church's 571 district superintendents, "is what is happening to the social, moral, and spiritual atmosphere in these rapidly expanding areas . . . in many instances thousands of people are brought together overnight - without churches or schools, without traditions or established leadership. Left without spiritual leadership, these communities inevitably will drift into paganism and disaster."

"People in migration are in a state of flux But they will not be in flux for long They will soon become set in their pattern of life They will soon become established as pagans if they do not become Christians."

Bishop Herbert Welch of New York, retiring director of the Methodist committee for overseas relief, told the meeting that needs of people in war-torn countries for food and other help made this year "a time of crisis beyond precedent."

The superintendents yesterday adopted a four-year program called "advance for Christ and his church." It was described as a huge missionary program at home and abroad to bring order to the world.

Some Outstanding Grade
SPECIAL—We are offering in this group approximately 40 head of first calf heifers, some vaccinated. Balance will be 60 head of cows. These cows are large, well grown, and in their prime. Perhaps the heaviest producing group we have ever sold in one sale. 50 head of cows and heifers will be fresh, balance due within 30 days.
FEATURING — Some very good, good plus, many cows that have not yet been classified that would classify very high. Many of the cows have good R. O. P. records, others will make commendable records if given the opportunity. We have tried, and I think we have succeeded in securing for this sale, the best lot of producers we have ever sold. We have some of the best Canadian breeding in this offering.
Why not buy your cows when you know they must be as represented, with a money back guarantee?
We extend to you a personal invitation to come and see these cows milked before sale date.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 10

'Great Purge' Cuts Deeper Into Russia

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

Upon my arrival in Moscow I went straight from the railroad station to the office of "Oblono," the department of education for the province of Moscow, where I was received with open arms by the veteran educator Mikhailov. He had been seeking an experienced instructor in natural sciences to fill a sudden vacancy. I was left to guess what had caused it, but during the great purge even a shrug of the shoulders told a familiar story.

My chief worry was how to deal with the inevitable question of my marital status. I decided to answer it with the simple statement that I was a widow. To my great relief there was no further probing by Mikhailov who was delighted with all my diplomas and documents, as there were not many qualified natural science teachers to be found.

"You're just the one we need," he said. "We have here in the district of Ruza quite a school, a model institution with a natural history museum, a meteorological station for children and a prized library of some 3,000 volumes."

ON FORMER ESTATE

I got the position. The school, located at Tuchkovo, some 50 miles west of Moscow, occupied the former estate of Dubrovina, with a mansion having gilded mirrors, murals and fine mosaic decorations. The former owner had long since been dispossessed.

Included in the institution attended by nearly 400 students from the surrounding countryside was a two-story brick building erected by the Zemstvo—the liberal social welfare body which under the Czar had built up a national network of schools and hospitals. There was a frame annex of Soviet construction used as a dormitory.

Here indeed was an institution the Soviet government could with pride exhibit to distinguished foreign visitors. I was curious to learn who had developed it. But there was a strange hush whenever that question was raised. I had an inkling when I discovered that the mother of my predecessor, a sorrowful and lonely little old woman, was living on the estate.

Soon enough the mystery was cleared up by the new director, Anatoli Kukhmazov, a militant Communist of the Central Asiatic Bashkir tribe, who took me around the place. He even spoke Russian with a thick accent. The subject he taught in the school was the history of the Communist Party.

With your rich experience, you can do big things here," he observed on the tour clinging to me all day and until late into the night. I was fascinated by the specimens in the museum, by the order in the herbarium and the library, which boasted a truly valuable collection of books on astronomy. Everything had its proper label. Kukhmazov felt my admiration and soon satisfied my curiosity.

FOUNDER BANISHED

He took some volumes off the shelves and sarcastically read to me verses on religious themes which had been tucked away in certain volumes. The author it appeared was his predecessor Ivanov, whose specialty was natural science and meteorology. With relish Kukhmazov cited this and other things as evidence of Ivanov's counter-revolutionary activity. Well this 'enemy of the people' had been well taken care of, he intimated. Ivanov had been packed off to a polar camp to serve as a meteorologist.

The old mother, I ascertained later, would go off to Moscow now and then, trying to find out where her son had been exiled and the term of his sentetnce. She would come back empty-handed. My own grief had to be a deep secret. No sign of life reached me from my own Demyan.

In Moscow I ran into a woman from our town of Slavyansk whose tragedy brought my own home to me. Natasha Klimenko was the mother of Kolya, a former pupil of mine whose father was a common blacksmith. Kolya was an outstandingly handsome and talented lad. I can still see his classical features, his winsome smile, and remember how popular he was with the girls. His father was a non-political proletarian.

The boy was his parents' joy. Kolya joined the Komsomol and decided to study medicine. He attended the Therapy institute, graduated and was appointed in the city hospital of Voronezh. He married and by 1936 was the father of a child.

At the end of that year there was an epidemic of scarlet fever and diphtheria in the Voronezh region. Several children of Communist officials died in the hospital. The young doctor was seized and was accused of having had sviaz—contact—with 'wreckers.' He vanished.

His mother after taking in her son's young wife and child would not give up trying to rescue her Kolya. She would scrape up her last savings and come to Moscow bringing bacon, butter or other precious produce to officials in the various departments she haunted in search of information about her son.

They would take her gifts, pass her from one bureau to another, make promises to conduct an inquiry and tell her to come back. She would return with more offerings, all the time desperately praying that one would take pity on her and give her some definite news. But it was all in vain and finally even the mother had to give up her quest.

Eight years later, before my departure from Moscow for the United States, I ran into Natasha again and asked her if she ever found out what had happened to Kolya.

"Yes," she answered with resignation. "A letter came through recently. He is in a camp somewhere at the world's edge, he married there, and has four children." After a pause, she added, "And do you know what they told my daughter-in-law? 'Go and get married yourself.'"

This was no surprise to me. The NKVD authorities in their cynicism did not even bother to advise the wives whom they robbed of their husbands to get a divorce. To the Soviet government those seized in the great purge were like persons who had departed from this world. I found this out early, and abandoned all hope of ever seeing Demyan again.

But I did think that the hurricane was behind me and that nothing more could happen to us. So I brought Oleg from Slavyansk and made a new home in the former quarters of my predecessor Ivanov. I planned to build a secure future for my boy. Little did I dream that the long vindictive arm of terror which had struck down my husband would reach out for my son.

Ashland Council Studies Proposal for City Bus Service

Operators Apply For Franchise

Sale of Opera House Pushed

ASHLAND — Possibility of city bus service for Ashland was indicated at city council meeting Monday night when application for a franchise to operate such a line was presented in behalf of H. V. Steutsler and Willard Fry by Attorney Howard S. Lutz.

Council agreed to meet with the attorney in the near future to discuss the proposal further before granting such a franchise.

Lutz told council the two potential operators of the line had completed a survey of the city and had determined the line could be started with two buses and a suggested fare of ten cents. The attorney pointed out that operation of bus service should relieve traffic and parking congestion in the downtown area.

The operators expect to operate four routes with two buses, passing a single place every hour. Rapid expansion of the city into outlying areas has created a need for bus service, he said.

Council passed the second reading of the ordinance providing for sale of the old city Opera House. Council expressed itself as determined to rid the city of the old partly-condemned building which occupies one of the principal business corners. Where former councils have been stymied in their efforts to sell the structure, this one appears determined to override all objections and obstacles.

Council approved a measure transferring $14,397.50 from the waterworks fund to the sinking fund for payment of $10,000 bonds and $4,397.50 interest in the waterworks improvement program. The measure was passed as an emergency as the payment is due now.

Council also appropriated $25 to the police department for replenishing the supply of arrest books. The year's supply is already running out due to the large increase in number of arrests for various offenses during the past few weeks, Police Chief Harry Smith reported.

commission on the status of its gas supply.

The order in effect took responsibility for adding new space heating customers from the gas companies and placed it with the commission.

"The supply situation both in the winter of 1948-1949 and thereafter is difficult to estimate," the order said, "because the federal power commission has assumed the authority to allocate to companies in other states gas which long distance pipe line companies are under contract to deliver to Ohio companies."

The order explained "the continuing unprecedented demand for gas and the inability of the utilities and their suppliers to provide facilities to make additional gas available to consumers in Ohio has created an emergency affecting the health, safety and welfare of the people of the state of Ohio which will continue during the winter of 1948-49."

being offered only standing room, space will be sold until the estimated crowd of 14,000 is reached.

As residents huddled in little groups, cheering on the Cleveland Indians, the Mansfield post office was flooded with calls from anxious baseball fans who wanted to know why they hadn't received their World Series tickets.

Indian supporters in Lucas are worried that the Tribe may have to go to the World Series without them. The baseball-minded village rushed the first mail with series reservations, but, to date, not one reply has been received. Even the veteran postmaster, Hoyt Leiter, who has missed only one Sunday game in Cleveland all season, has drawn a blank so far.

So it seems that Cloyd Culler will be the lifesaver to the Lucas community on the series deal. Culler, who a few months ago built the only television set in the community, anticipates capacity gatherings at his home tomorrow.

Clevelanders today were catching their breath, saving up some of the steam for the opener of the series tomorrow when the conquering heroes meet Billy Southworth's Boston Braves.

Yesterday, downtown Cleveland looked like a royal welcome home for someone like Lindbergh. Noisemakers, flags, confetti, torn newspapers and ripped-up telephone books were thrown out windows. Fans dressed in Indian costumes wandered through the festive crowds and chanting snake dancers forced their way through the packed streets.

They say the Cleveland police force added extra patrolmen to control the mob, but the boys in blue were just as happy about the pennant as anyone else.

Police Free Robbery Suspect

The 26-year-old Miller street resident, held in city jail yesterday in connection with the robbery of Alfred Browling, 60, of 483 North Mulberry street, was released by authorities.

Assistant County Prosecutor Claude E. Ewing ordered the release after interviewing both Browling and the suspect. Ewing said there was not sufficient evidence to warrant filing of charges.

Browling was robbed early Sunday morning on North Main street.

5 Handicapped Workers Need Jobs; Can You Help Them?

All over the United States, this week has been designated as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. Beginning today The News-Journal will carry five brief case histories each day on handicapped people who are seeking employment through the Ohio State Employment Service. For further information on any of these potential employes, employers are urged to get in touch with the OSES. Phone 4154-6.

CASE I — A 30-year-old man has a leg injury from a wound suffered in World War II. He has a slight build, a grammar school education, and is interested in any unskilled or semi-skilled labor involving little walking, standing, or lifting.

CASE II — A man in his mid-twenties has arthritis of the spine. He has an average build and spent three years as a Marine machine gunner. He has had two years of high school, and experience as a railroad conductor, an assembler, and a press operator. He wants any suitable employment, including training in a trade.

CASE III — An Army veteran, age 26, has an amputation of the left arm below the elbow. Otherwise his build is good. He has an eighth grade education, and experience as an auto mechanic. He is interested in a job as an inspector, or a clerk in an auto parts stockroom.

CASE IV — An elderly man, in good physical condition except for a blind left eye, seeks any suitable employment. He has had experience in lumber yards.

CASE V — A young man, lacking the use of both legs, wants a job as a tool checker or timekeeper. He will consider any kind of light mechanical work he can do at a bench. He has had a high school education.

Following the initiation, there will be a program of entertainment.

Navy Camera Photographs Light Rays

High Speed Cameras Used

INYOKERN, Calif.—Nothing in the world is faster than light.

In one second, light travels a billion feet. That's 183,000 miles, or more than seven times around the globe at the equator.

Now let's say you wish to take a picture of light. You want to stop a short segment, one that's only 10 feet long. Light travels 10 feet in a hundred-millionth of a second. Yet you essay to halt this fleeting beam virtually dead in its tracks.

No ordinary camera, rather no ordinary lens, can perform this miracle of optics. Yet there exists today a lens that has photographed light beams of that length not once, but a score of times. And the pictures were made with the kind of camera thousands of amateurs train every day on autumn scenes.

How do you halt such a runaway?

Look in on the laboratories of the Navy Ordnance Test Station here and at nearby Pasadena. You see service physicists and photographers fiddling with strange-looking contraptions that no more resemble standard camera lenses than day does night.

DEVICE ALL-ELECTRIC

One is an all-electric device. It has no moving parts. It consists essentially of an electro-optical cell—a glass tube filled with nitrobenzene. A pair of copper electrodes is immersed in the tube.

In preparing to take an ultra-swift picture, the operator places the cell between two polaroids. These are crossed to keep light from being transmitted through both. To "uncross" the polaroids ever so briefly—a hundred-millionth of a second—a charge of electricity is shot into the cell.

As 10,000 volts surge through the device, the cell briefly alters the polarized light in such a manner that polaroids transmit light, and an image is transmitted onto film in the camera.

To snatch a patch of light 10 feet long requires more legerdemain than merely pointing cell and camera through a window and snapping its picture.

You must set up a series of small mirrors on an inclined board.

Now you place a brilliant light source adjacent to the camera. Then you position lens cells directly in front of camera and light source.

Now you require another bit of equipment not so easily obtainable—two lengths of coaxial cable of slightly unequal length. After hooking them up to the same power source, you hit a switch. Electricity starts flowing down both cables.

Through the shorter one, it reaches the cell shuttering the light source first. It opens and closes, emitting a beam slightly longer than 10 feet.

SPEED INCREDIBLE

With incredible speed, 32-billionths of a second after the first closes, the camera shutter opens. And, if you're lucky, you get a picture showing dots of light standing on several of the mirrors. The number of dots indicates how long a slice of light you have photographed.

But why bother? What's the sense of taking pictures of mirrored dots? First, it proves ultra-swift pictures can be taken. Second, it demonstrates that shutters can be synchronized. Third, it shows that pictures of sparks and other phenomena having to do with the precise timing of military explosives can be photographed.

And from these pictures, better techniques for handling all sorts of swift military devices can be evolved.

It obviously is unwise even to hint at particular applications. Yet the Navy experts are now considering hooking up a half-dozen or more of the cells in an effort to catch a series of snapshots revealing the cycles of phenomena lasting less than .50-millionths of a second, from start to finish. The pictures would be recorded on ordinary 35-millimeter film, in small-size cameras.

THREE CAPTURED

WAPAKONETA —(AP)— Three youths who fled from the Auglaize county jail Sept. 18, are under arrest in Peru, Ind., Sheriff William Neiter reported yesterday. The three are William R. Nance, 19, and Carl E. Taylor, 19, both of Lima, and Abram L. King, 21, of Kenton.

Simpson Football Queen's a Blond, Appleseed Picks Brunet

The two junior high school football queens who will be crowned at the game between Johnny Appleseed and John Simpson junior high schools, Oct. 27, will present a contrast in beauty.

Shirley Yoakam, of 158 West Temple court, who was elected queen at John Simpson, is a 14-year-old brunet. Patricia Daugherty of 146 Lexington avenue, Johnny Appleseed's queen, is a blond of the same age.

Shirley, a ninth grader at John Simpson, was elected by members of the ninth grade class. They also elected six attendants, all of whom are in the ninth grade at John Simpson.

The attendants include Patricia Damoff, 128 Carpenter road; Marilyn Volz, 196 Marion avenue; Georgene Scholler, 268 Grace street; Shirley Pirrgo, 46 Marion avenue; Charlotte Lemley, 98 West Fourth street, and Jane Germany, 95 Linden road.

A similar number of girls were elected to attend Patricia by the Johnny Appleseed students.

Shelby Tax Rate Goes Up 60 Cents

Estimated Figure Placed at $22.60

SHELBY—The new tax rate for the City of Shelby will be $22 60 for next year s tax collection.

City council last night approved County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's estimated rate in the City of Shelby, based on tax valuations of $10,871,810. This figure is 60 cents per $1,000 valuation higher than this year's rate.

The estimate of rate in mills was broken down in the following manner Inside 10-mill limitation County, 2 00 Township, 20, School, 5 20 and City, 2 60 the levy totaling $10,00 Outside 10-mill limitation County, 1 30 Township none School, 8 90, and City, 2 40, totaling $12 60

Council approved a resolution authorizing Mayor William Morris to advertise for bids on a new pick-up truck for the water department and for the sale of the old truck

Mayor Morris reported to the council that the old truck was in bad shape and it would require approximately $500 to put it in serviceable condition

NEW LINES ASKED

A petition for the extension and construction of water lines on the Park Avenue extension was approved

Council approved the transferring of $100 from the general fund to the service fund Of this amount $82 61 will be used to pay for the painting of the band stand in Central School park

Mayor Morris [illegible] the city engineer was drawing up the plans and specifications for the municipal light plant improvements.

The mayor urged members of council to stress the one-mill levy for additional equipment for the fire department The levy will be put on the ballot in the November election

Gets Longer Probation

The probation period of Carl Williams 98 Lewis avenue has been extended for an extra year, a common pleas court journal entry showed today Williams was placed on three years probation March 27 1946 on his plea of guilty to second-degree manslaughter arising out of a traffic accident

He was in court for violation of the terms of his probation in that he became intoxicated and threatened members of his family, the court entry said The court on finding him guilty of the violation added the year to the probationary period

Motorist Accused By Railroad

Ignored Watchman's Signal, Charge

In an effort to reduce the possibility of traffic mishaps at its crossings the Pennsylvania railroad has instituted a campaign to prosecute motorists who fail to obey crossing watchman signals

Donald Stamper, 14 Fern avenue, was arrested last night by E J White, railroad detective, and sheriffs deputies on a charge of failing to obey signals of a railroad crossing watchman.

He was apprehended at the East Fifth street crossing at 10 p m yesterday when he stopped at the watchman s signal and then drove over the crossing before the train arrived White said

In municipal court today Stamper pleaded guilty to the charge, but then denied he was driving the car The case was continued until tomorrow so that the court could determine who was operating the car at the time of the alleged violation

There have been a series of near-accidents at the Pennsylvania railroad East Fourth street crossing when motorists reported nearly being hit by trains because the safety gates were not down or were not put down in time.

A railroad spokesman said that although the crossing watchman may have been responsible for at least one of the near accidents, the railroad believes motorists frequently approach the East Fourth street crossing too fast to stop at the gate or try to get through as the gate is being lowered

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1948

Happy thought for the day—by four weeks from now the campaign speeches will all be over.

According to Radio Moscow, many "advanced" Americans are supporting Henry Wallace—which seems an odd interpretation of that word, "advanced."

As nearly as can be judged by considering the variety of opinions expressed, the European situation is critical but not serious, and that an imminent war need not be expected soon.

Fire Prevention Is This Week's Theme

MANSFIELD'S experience with destructive fires has been such as to warrant widespread interest and participation in the current observance of National Fire Prevention week—which marks the anniversary of the great Chicago fire in 1871, in which 18,000 buildings were destroyed, with loss estimated at $196,000,000.

The program being carried through in Mansfield this week includes a number of spectacular features, concluding with a street parade scheduled for Saturday night.

While the interest of adults is anticipated it is noteworthy that a special effort is being made to attract the attention of school children, with a view to impressing them with the need for constant vigilance in avoiding fire hazards.

In addition to the immensity of property destruction—estimated at well over $50,000,000 a month—fire is recognized as one of the most consistent killers. Its ravage is especially great among young children, and in addition it disfigures and cripples thousands of people each year.

Experts say that 90 per cent of all fires, great and small, are unnecessary—that carelessness is the largest contributing factor, and that collective failure to follow the rudiments of fire safety is the basic reason why fire losses continue to grow.

While the activities of Fire Prevention week serve to briefly concentrate public attention on that subject, it should not be disregarded that fire prevention is really a year 'round job and that a moment's carelessness can cause a destructive fire—possibly with loss of lives.

Join with other Mansfielders in giving more than ordinary attention to the subject of fire prevention this week—then continue on the same course throughout the year.

When Baseball Really 'Makes History'

THANK GOODNESS, THAT'S OVER! Now that the Cleveland Indians pinned down the American league pennant yesterday by walloping the Boston Red Sox in the play-off of their tie, the World series tension will be mild in comparison with the nerve-wracking days that witnessed the up again, down again exhibitions of strength and weakness by the Indians during the final few games of the season.

There was that week-end hullabaloo when Cleveland was expected to clinch the pennant but when the fifth place Detroit Tigers upset the applecart by whanging out victories in two of the three games. The Sunday game was a time of torment for the 75,000 fans gathered in Cleveland's big Stadium, prepared to make a noisy demonstration after what was expected to be the deciding game. But Detroit won and a silent crowd of mourners plodded homeward in deep distress.

Then came the hurried trip to Boston for the play-off game in Fenway park, with the recognized handicap of being on the opponents' home grounds. But Fate—as applied to baseball—moves in strange and mysterious ways, and the Red Sox stalwarts went down to defeat.

And so, for the first time in 28 years, Cleveland wins the American league pennant, and Bill Veeck and his associates can rest assured that their friends in the Mansfield area will continue as ardent boosters during the World series—meanwhile appreciating the brief lull after the dreadful uncertainty of the past few days.

One Cent Less For Quart of Milk

ONLY the most optimistic will be likely to regard the drop of one cent a quart in the price of milk as a "trend" toward lower living costs. Announcement of the slight reduction in Mansfield milk prices followed by several days similar action by milk distributors in this area.

Decision as to milk prices, like those of gasoline, seems to be under strict control, by means of agreements which are sometimes questioned as to legality but which appear to prevail in the marketing of various commodities.

Explanation of the milk price reduction is that there was an "oversupply" at the higher price and that an abundant feed crop is lowering production costs. The "oversupply" idea, however, is subject to question as a more plausible explanation is that many people were financially unable to supply family needs for milk at the record high price of 22 cents a quart.

It may be hoped that, hereafter, Mansfield will be among the first cities in Ohio to register price decreases, so as to offset the unfavorable publicity gained by being the first city in the state to advance the price of haircuts to $1.25.

Exceeding the Speed of Sound

FROM A CASUAL, unelaborated remark by the secretary for air, it is deduced that an Air Force research plane has flown much faster than the speed of sound, perhaps at a speed approaching a thousand miles an hour. The plane is not exactly practical, as it can carry enough fuel to run its rocket engine only two and a half minutes at full power.

Development of a plane able consistently to travel faster than sound, if it has been accomplished, would at least prove that it can be done, which is an important point in the light of disagreements among theorists and conflicting stories heard about secret experiments.

Harry Wade suggests that a car in the "lower price range" is just the thing for cruising about in search of the "cheaper cuts" of meat.

The Nation Today

Russia's 'Rough Stuff'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Berlin means to Germans what New York and Washington, if rolled into one, would mean to Americans. It's Germany's biggest city and its old apital.

So it's a prize in the naked struggle over Germany between Russia on the one side and, on the other, the United States, Britain and France.

As part of that struggle the Russians now are doing all they can, short of war, to grab Berlin all for themselves.

They don't have it to themselves now. That's because of a deal made in 1945 when Germany fell and Russia and the three western democracies were still friendly wartime allies.

Then they agreed:

To split Germany into four zones. Each ally would occupy one zone and run it. And—Berlin would be split into four sectors, with each ally occupying one and running it.

(The four military commanders in the four zones and the four sectors were supposed to work together in planning for Germany and Berlin as a whole. As time went on, this broke down.)

The four-power control of the old German capital was to be a symbol of the four-power control of all Germany. But—

Berlin is deep in the Russian zone. By being in Berlin the western powers have a foothold deep in the heart of the Russian-controlled part of Germany.

Further, of the 3,500,000 or so Germans in Berlin, about 2,500,000 live in the sectors of the western powers.

From what follows you can see what a big stumbling block that is to Russia's desires for complete control of her zone.

In 1946 the four powers let the Berliners in all four sectors elect their own city council so they could have some self-government.

The Socialist Unity party, controlled by the German communists and pampered by the Russians, got only about 20 per cent of the vote.

So the number of communists and communist-sympathizers elected to the council were far outnumbered by the non-communists.

This showed that there in Berlin—deep in the Russian zone—was a huge pool of Germans not following the Russian line.

* * *

Obstacles Interposed.

IT'S NOT surprising then that this summer Russian military authorities "encouraged"—that's the American State Department word for it—a communist-led German mob to try to destroy the council.

The council was meeting in the Berlin city hall in the Russian sector of the city when the mob burst in. All the council members, except the communists and their sympathizers, fled to the western sectors.

The council is trying to do business there now, but it's a cripple.

Stalin on August 2 frankly said the western powers no longer have any right in Berlin, although he said the Russians are not trying to force them out.

The three western powers, through their ambassadors, told him Russia is trying to force them out but they will not leave.

For months now the Russians have refused to let the western powers send any supplies— by boat, train or truck—from their zones of Germany into their sectors of Berlin.

(They can do that because any supplies from the western zones to the western sectors of Berlin have to move through the Russian zone.)

So for months the western powers have been sending supplies by plane into their sectors of Berlin for their troops and the Germans living there.

They may not be able to send in enough supplies by plane when the bad winter months set in.

If they quit Berlin leaving 2,500,000 Germans to the Russians, it doesn't mean they'll have to quit all Germany. They can stay in their own zones of Germany, outside the Russian zone, where the Russians cannot blockade them.

Washington Calling

Tight Belts In Britain

By MARQUIS CHILDS

A VISITOR is in Washington who comes from a people under siege. Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer in Britain's labor government, lean, austere, self-disciplined, is a symbol of the struggle going forward in England.

That the siege is against the forces of economic catastrophe makes it no less rigorous.

The end of the shooting war three years ago brought very few differences to the beleagured population of the tight little island.

Speaking not long ago in parliament, Cripps reported definite and substantial gains against the threatening enemy. His report of progress got very little attention in the news here. It seemed almost as though the siege of Britain had already been discounted as lost

What Cripps said in his report was that Britain's annual trade deficit with the rest of the world had been reduced by 55 per cent. This must be measured against the gravity of Britain's plight since the end of World War II to understand its significance.

From the outbreak of war in 1939 through 1945, the British threw into the battle most of the resources that had made it possible in other years to balance their budget with the world. Through various intangibles investments, shipping and so on they could pay for the imports essential to feed a population that cannot sustain itself on England's limited acres of tillable land. At the same time, colonies and dependencies severed ancient ties.

This meant the kind of belt-tightening that many looking on from the outside thought impossible, and it may still prove impossible. Yet the progress reported by Cripps was extraordinary. Between December, 1947 and June of '48, the volume of British exports rose from 120 per cent to 138 per cent of the volume for 1938. It is now believed to be well above the target figure of 140 per cent of pre-war.

* * *

Must Stand Together.

MARSHALL PLAN aid definitely helped in this recovery. But, as Cripps pointed out, the British net contribution of $282,000,000 in grants this year to other European countries is not insignificant.

Any one who has been in England since the war knows what sacrifices are back of this record. It means a monotonous level of living with almost nothing left over for even little luxuries.

Officially, Cripps is here for the annual meeting of the governing board of the World Bank of which he is vice chairman. But he will talk with American policy-makers about Britain's most pressing problem today.

That problem can be summarized this way: What will happen to the program to increase exports, and thereby correct the unbalance in world trade, in view of of Britain's beginning re-armament and re-mobilization program?

In recent months, many Americans have felt critical and even bitter toward Britain. British policy on Palestine has seemed to some to be hopelessly anchored in a past that will never come again. Others have been skeptical of the British experiment in democratic socialism.

But in spite of all disagreements, the partnership of Great Britain at this moment of terrible peril and uncertainty is of paramount importance. Ignoring the strategic considerations, which loom ever larger, we must say that here are a people who believe in the things we believe in and who will stand up for them.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

A BRITISH scientist reports the case of a man cured of baldness by moving out on his mother-in-law . . . This is one of the less drastic remedies.

* * *

The theory is that baldness and housing go together . . . This may be of interest to the Democratic national committee.

* * *

Having pinned lack of housing on the opposition the Democrats might now assess them with responsibility for the prevalence of toupees.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Michigan Republican Presses Clean-Up

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — This is the story of how one Republican bucked a lot of other powerful Republicans in the state of Michigan.

It's an important story because it throws light on the question of who really pays the bills and pulls the strings behind the GOP scenes. It happens also to be a story where this columnist sat backstage.

One Michigan newspaper recently waved its editorial pen under the nose of U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark and accused him of leaking certain inside facts about the Michigan scandals to this columnist.

The "leak," however, was the other way around. This column leaked to Tom Clark, not Tom Clark to the column. In fact, this column's readers may recall that for more than a year it has been delving into the Senator Hooper murder case and other strange goings-on in Michigan.

The alleged leak pertained to violation of the Corrupt Practices Act by Buick's vice president, W. F. Hufsteader, General Motors' lawyer, Harry Gault, and GOP National Committeeman Arthur Summerfield, who also happens to be the biggest Chevrolet dealer in the world.

* * *

Judge Gets Cold Feet.

THESE big GOP whipcrackers were under investigation by another Republican, Michigan's Attorney General Eugene Black, when suddenly Judge Philip Elliott, of Flint, got cold feet. Hastily he dropped his one-man grand jury and ordered Black to return all records showing violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

It was at this point, last July, that this columnist went to the justice department and urged that it take up the Michigan scandals where courageous, beleaguered Mr. Black had left off.

At first the justice department moved like molasses. Michigan newspapers are now accusing Tom Clark of playing politics because of his probe of Michigan. But if there was any justice department enthusiasm for jumping into the Michigan political pot, this writer couldn't detect it. The federal boys hemmed, hawed and hesitated before wading gingerly into the hot Michigan water.

* * *

Dealers Fudge Sales Taxes.

TO GET the full picture of the Michigan scandals you have to turn back to 1944 when go-getting GOP leader Arthur Summerfield announced a drive to raise $500,000. From then until now, a large hunk of the Republican national committee's dough has come out of Michigan, much of it from automobile dealers and manufacturers.

More recently, a Detroit grand jury has shown that Michigan auto dealers fudged on their sales taxes to the tune of several million dollars. They simply "forgot" to pay the state. And Michigan Attorney General Black, the lonely clean-up Republican, claims that this reneging on sales taxes was the payoff for big campaign contributions. When you save thousands of dollars on sales taxes, naturally you can afford to give hundreds of dollars to the GOP.

Black, therefore, moved to open up the smelly mess. A Republican himself, he started to call a spade a spade.

Immediately other Republicans chorused: "Ingrate!" The Republican state central committee met and demanded that Black resign.

"You are a menace to good government, and we hereby respectfully suggest that you immediately resign," the Republican state committee telegraphed Black.

Governor Sigler, also Republican, promptly denied Black $35,000 he needed to investigate the campaign frauds.

And when Black dug up $12,498 unexpended money left over from 1947, the GOP state auditor clamped down an order that this money could not be used to probe GOP campaign funds.

Every conceivable obstacle was put in Black's path. However, with a limited staff, he proceeded with his investigation of the manner in which the automobile industry of Michigan illegally financed and dominated the Republican party in Michigan. This investigation was before Judge Philip Elliott in Flint, a state court.

* * *

Judge Protects Friends.

SUDDENLY Judge Elliott got cold feet. As stated earlier, he abruptly adjourned his grand jury with the amazing explanation that criminal action might be brought against some of his friends.

This weird excuse brought sarcastic comments from two other Michigan state judges. Commented Judge W. McKay Skillman in Detroit:

"I never recall having heard that excuse before."

Remarked Judge Joseph Moynihan, presiding circuit court judge of Michigan: "I have never, in all the years that I have been connected with the law, heard of a judge withdrawing from a case because that case might involve friends or so-called friends."

He added that he was "amazed and shocked."

What made Judge Elliott's face blanch as he beat his hasty retreat from the grand-jury probe was the sight of various canceled checks contributed by his own auto friends in Flint. On their face they were violations of the Corrupt Practices Act.

* * *

Canceled Checks Hidden.

JUDGE ELLIOTT not only dropped his grand-jury probe as if he had seen a ghost, but he sent a telegram to Attorney General Black ordering him to return the canceled checks and all financial records of the various auto companies.

It was at this point that this columnist beat on the door of the justice department in Washington and urged that since state officials in Michigan refused to investigate the Michigan mess, the federal government should move in.

Note—While the justice department tried to make up its mind, Attorney General Black in Michigan kept three sets of records of the canceled checks in three different places, so that if Gov. Sigler's state police moved in, at least one copy of the records would remain out of their reach.

DP's Hate Communists

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—When the 80th Congress was discussing legislation to admit certain quotas of Europe's displaced persons to this country, there was considerable talk about the possibility of communism within the ranks of those homeless hordes.

Although factual proof was lacking, the rumor alone—in these times—was enough to affect the legislation. And when such immigration measures arise again before the 81st Congress, the ubiquitous rumors will inevitably also arise.

The next time, however, a short, lean-faced, white-haired veteran of two wars is all set to slap them down—provided, of course, if he's re-elected.

And Congressman Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republican, has no axe to grind on the issue. He just doesn't think there's one iota of truth in such rumors, and right now, he's probably the best-informed member of Congress on the subject.

Last week, he returned from a several-weeks' tour of Europe, taken strictly on his own, incidentally. During that time, he visited DP camps in several countries, spending considerable time in eight of the largest in Europe—which once included people of almost every nationality and religion.

* * *

Out-Spoken Opposition

HIS conclusion, after endless investigation and questioning: "There are no grounds for fears about communists coming to us out of the DP camps—absolutely no grounds whatever!"

The slight, quiet-voiced lawyer who served as sergeant in World War One and added enough overseas experience in World War Two to make colonel (with a postwar promotion to brigadier general) made the foregoing statement during a press conference. Later, in an interview, he was even more emphatic.

"I had heard that story enough to check it thoroughly," he said. "It's not only untrue, it's ridiculous. In most of those DP camps it's about as much as your life is worth even to ask a man if he is a communist. Without exception, they hit the ceiling at the very question.

"And it's no act. Best concrete proof, for example, is found at the Hancu camp which is populated largely with Poles, Lithuanians and DP's from other countries which have come within the Russian orbit. The communists have sent committees to that camp to try to persuade the people to return to their homes.

"If they returned to their home villages and towns, presumably they would have their own houses to live in again and a certain 'open life'—physically speaking, that is. At the DP camp, they are behind barbed wire and living with from two to five families literally in the same room. That gives you an idea as to camp conditions.

"Yet the last communist committee which tried to entice them back to their Russian-dominated homelands succeeded in getting exactly one person—one person, mind you— to return . . ."

Keating paused, then concluded: ". . . . And there are more than 5,400 persons in that camp with homes in the Russian-controlled countries! One out of 5,400!"

At every camp he visited, the congressman said he found it was the same story. No communists.

"I think the whole answer was best-stated by a leader of the Jewish DP'S at Camp Zeilsheim," Keating said. "When I asked him the question, he said to me: 'Congressman, my wife and three children were killed under a dictatorship. Most of the people here lost their families under dictatorship. It doesn't matter whether they're on the right or the left—fascist or communist—dictatorships are all the same. I hate them'!

"That just about summed up the story of most of the displaced persons as far as communism is concerned. I wish I could be as sure of the answers to some of the other questions I asked in Europe as I am that you won't find communists in DP camps!"

About Middle America

By CALVIN A. BYERS

INTERCHANGE of fresh foodstuffs by air — "market basket with wings"—is becoming common in Middle America. Until the advent of the cargo plane, it was difficult to ship sweet corn, broccoli, radishes, green beans, peas, and lettuce out of Costa Rica to Panama, Nicaragua, and other countries.

* * *

NOT FAR from the capital of Honduras, there is said to be a lake the color of blood, the water of which, sealed in a bottle, will "give you a bang." Although, as drinking water, it does cows and other animals no harm, it will explode if bottled!

THE pearl fishing trade of Panama is centuries old, and Indian pearl divers operate in the same way as did their ancestors, gambling their lives against the chance of finding gems.

The 40-odd Pearl Islands, in the Gulf of Panama, about 50 miles from Balboa have supplied the European gem trade for four centuries. Legend has it that Panamanians used pearls as money when Columbus first visited their land. He took back a pearl weighing 300 grams as a present for Queen Isabella.

"BALSAM of Peru" never flourished in Peru, nor anywhere else except in the smallest of the Middle-American republics, El Salvador. Commercial balsam is an antiseptic, curative agent used in surgery. Early shipments to Spain were routed by way of Peru, thus became known as "balsam of Peru" . . . and the name stuck.

Commercial balsam still comes mostly from native forests, since it takes 25 years for a tree to start bearing. The balsam's average height is 80 to 115 feet, its wood hard and durable, like rock maple—highly favored by furniture makers. Glossy silvery bark yields resins, gums and oils—but the greatest value is in the sap or juice extracted from the inner bark.

"Balsameros"—balsam harvesters"—shin up trees, like monkeys, and use a knife-chisel to peel back the outer bark and expose the red inner cone. Squares of cloth are affixed below each scar to catch the sap. When cloths are saturated they are collected and boiled in kettles of water.

COWS are rented out by the year in Colombia. In Antioquia there is a "livestock pool" controlling 46,000 head of cattle, which are put out "on loan" to farmers all over the department. If the borrower's debt is liquidated when his contract expires by the sale of the cows, he gets 75 per cent of the net profit.—Middle America Information Bureau.

Timely Editorial

Wiser Young People.

A healthy influence that may be more effective than court decision is at work to break down the bars of segregation that have kept Negroes from being admitted to many colleges and universities in the south.

That is the attitude of the students themselves.

There have been previous instances in both Texas and Oklahoma of white students espousing the cause of Negroes who unsuccessfully sought admittance.

Now comes a report from St. John's college at Annapolis, Md., that the first Negro student in the institution's 252-year-old history has been enrolled as a freshman.

This follows a resolution adopted last March by the undergraduates, by a vote of 162 to 33, welcoming "the admission of students of any race or color." The resolution was prepared and presented by a youth from North Carolina.

This is a hopeful sign that the coming generation may deal more sensibly with racial problems than has been done in the past.—Akron Beacon Journal.

As Others See It

Using the Oil.

This is the season when instead of burning the midnight oil the student athlete rubs it on his bruised and aching joints.—Ohio State Journal.

Merely a Suggestion.

A candidate might win election with surprising ease by promising to restore the 25-cent haircut and the nickel ice cream soda. Fulfilling the promise might be an awkward problem, but hardly more so than with some other campaign pledges.—Lorain Journal.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

In the United States women own nearly $40,000,000,000 of life insurance, about one-fifth of all the life insurance in force in the country.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"A mother really needs three hands. . . . Two for caring for the baby. . . . And one for holding the book."

11TH DISTRICT MEETING HELD BY MEDICAL GROUP

State Officers Give Program Following Luncheon at Women's Club on Monday.

FORTY attended the 11th district meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Ohio Medical Society, held Monday at the Women's club, with members of the Richland County Auxiliary as hostesses. Mrs. Wilmot Pierce, Mrs. R. R. Crawford, Mrs. F. J. Herringhaus and Mrs. A. H. Voegele presided as hostesses.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock at attractively appointed tables. Guests were in attendance from Sandusky, Orrville, Bellville and Lexington.

Honored guests, who spoke to the group on the coming year's program for the state auxiliary, were Mrs. Benjamin Gillette of Toledo, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Ohio State Medical Association, and Mrs. C. W. Kirkland of Bellaire, president-elect of the organization.

They told of the assistance the auxiliary has been giving to the Medical Association, in the various fields.

Announcement was made of the Nov. 1 meeting which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mrs. Karl T. Langacher and Mrs. Charles G. Brown jr. will be hostesses for the luncheon at 1 o'clock. There will be a guest speaker at that time, who will give a medical study program.

CIRCLE TWO

Circle Two of the First Presbyterian church will meet Thursday for a dessert luncheon at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Carl Russell, 578 Coleman road. Mrs. Georgia Atkinson will assist. Mrs. Russell Gimbel will show slides of the Friendly House.

Around O. S. U.'s Oval

By LARRY MURPHY
(News-Journal Correspondent)

COLUMBUS—Despite the rapidly thinning ranks of World War II veterans on the Ohio State campus this week, Mansfield area high schools continued contributing a large share of the university's enrollees as 197 area students registered for OSU's 75th Fall quarter.

Total paid enrollment as the first week of classes ended Friday was 23,383. Predicted enrollment when all registration is completed is expected to reach 24,000 or about 1,000 less than last year's record-breaking figure of 25,244.

Ohio State this year observes its 75th anniversary, three-quarters of a century of growth from a suburban Columbus cow pasture and one or two buildings to one of the nation's greater educational institutions.

Highlight of the observance of the university's growth, progress, and contributions to the world, nation and state will be a three-day celebration on the campus and in downtown Columbus, Oct. 14-16.

* * *

Deep in the heart of preparation for this observance is a Mansfielder who, like other hometowners prominent in campus activities, will play a leading role in telling "the University Story" to the world. He is Lee R. Adams, a 1942 Senior High graduate, who is editor of the campus "All-American Daily," the OHIO STATE LANTERN.

Adams, who will guide the student newspaper's policy until his graduation next June, spends between 40 and 50 hours a week on the LANTERN.

"It's a tough job," he says, "but I'm enjoying it."

"We have an excellent staff this year and a lot of co-operation. Things are running quite smoothly for so early in the quarter," he declared.

Before classes began Sept. 28, Adams worked very hard with a skeleton staff of volunteer student newsmen to get out the annual Freshman orientation edition. Last week, as the staff was still a volunteer one, pending permanent assignments, faculty and student body concurred in commending the young Mansfielder and his assistants for the fine freshman edition.

* * *

Lee Adams and his brother spent the summer operating a golf driving range outside of Mansfield, and for that, Lee is very thankful.

Already, the appearance of the student paper has changed from that of its predecessor in that Adams has instituted a new page makeup.

In writing editorials he plans to concentrate on campus news without neglecting national and world topics in either editorial or news columns. A random sampling of editorial comment to date revealed topics ranging from campus improvements to thought-provoking discussion on the effect of the Berlin crisis upon the UN, and that of Argentina's dictatorship in South America.

Despite his double duties, to studies and the LATERN, Adams still makes time for recreation. In his Zeta Beta Tau fraternity room in Columbus he relaxes from sessions with the books by listening to music from his 200-record collection.

* * *

Five Mansfield students at State have already won campus-wide recognition on the distaff side of the campus by being chosen assistant heads of their respective dormitories.

Serving as student counsellors to the younger women are the twins Irene and Ilene Hoffman, Deloris Thrawl, Helen Chokreff and Demaris Clark.

* * *

The University's famed 120-niece marching band, celebrating its 20th anniversary this year, also numbers a Mansfielder in its ranks. He is William F. Gandert, a graduate student in the Law School, who plays the E-flat alto trumpet. A graduate of Mansfield Senior High school, he is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity and the Scouting fraternity Alpha Phi Omega.

Delta Theta Sorority Has Guest Meeting

Twenty-two members and twenty-five guests were in attendance for the Delta Theta Tau sorority guest party held at the Mansfield-Leland clubrooms Monday evening. Mrs. Steve Berkej, formerly Miss Ruth Dye, was presented with a gift from the sorority.

Cards were the diversion of the evening with Mrs. Charles Campbell winning the traveling prize. Mrs. George Walker won the guest bridge prize and Mrs. Charles Wolfe won the second prize. Miss Nancy Ferris was awarded the heart's gift and Mrs. Berkej won the gin rummy prize.

Refreshments were served buffet style at a late hour by the committee, Mrs. Richard Risser, chairman, Miss Mary Lou Taylor and Mrs. Edward Monahan.

Founder's Day for the sorority will be observed Oct. 16.

The next regular business meeting will be Oct. 18 with the place announced later.

Linen Shower Honors Miss Joan Kaiser

A linen shower was given recently in honor of Miss Joan Kaiser by Misses Rita and Eileen Daley and Miss Elaine Mash. The event was held at the Daley home, 517 South Main street.

During the course of the evening, a bride's book was made and presented to the honoree.

The dining room was attractively decorated with green and white. The twelve guests were seated at small tables, each centered with green and white pompons. Green and white favors and engraved napkins announced the marriage date.

The honoree was presented with many lovely gifts. The hostesses presented her with a white chenille spread.

Miss Kaiser will become the bride of Richard D. Beach, Saturday at 10:30 a. m. in St. Peter's Catholic rectory.

MARCELLA WINNINGHAM

Mrs. Verna Winningham, Route 6, Mansfield, is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Marcella Jane, to Gerald Edwin Daum, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Daum, 156 Wood street. The young couple will be married before the altar of the First English Lutheran church on October 10 at 3 o'clock, with Rev. Olin Aughbaugh officiating. A double ring closed service will be observed. Miss Winningham is a graduate of the Springfield Township high school at Ontario and is employed at the American Optical company. Mr. Daum is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed in the advertising department of the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Good Samaritan Club Plans Christmas Box For Missionaries

MRS. Mark Senter entertained the members of the Good Samaritan Bible club at her home on Hammond avenue, Monday evening. Thirteen members were in attendance.

Mrs. C. H. Wood conducted the devotions, using as her subject "To Grow In Christian Qualities," taken from 2nd Peter, 1st chapter.

Mrs. D. L. Garber, president, conducted a short business session. The members decided to make up a box and send it to Mr. and Mrs. Dale McClain, missionaries in China, for Christmas.

A study period was in charge of Mrs. H. H. Light, who gave an interesting talk on "Impartial Judgment of God." This was taken from the 2nd chapter of Romans.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. O. Hall, Fifth avenue, Oct. 18. The study will be conducted by Mrs. Ray Underwood.

Eileen Bender Honored at Shower

Miss Eileen Bender, bride-elect of Joseph Timmer, was honored with a miscellaneous shower recently. The shower was given by the bride's mother, Mrs. W. C. Bender, and Miss Margaret Wilson, at the home of the bride in Lexington.

The evening was spent playing games and contests. Prizes were won by Mrs. Dorothy Heslep, Miss Joann Fisher and Miss Veramae Ford, who presented the prizes to the honoree.

A tray luncheon was served by the hostesses to the fourteen guests in attendance.

Mr. Timmer and Miss Bender will exchange nuptial vows Oct. 16 before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church. Open church will be observed for the formal ceremony.

THURSDAY MEETING

The Women's Society of Christian service of the Ontario Community church, will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening at the church.

He caught two thugs breaking into the apartment next to his, chased them out of the house with his son's baseball bat, and stood by to take his bows when they ran straight into the arms of a policeman. . . .

Band business is supposed to be on the rocks, but Sammy Kaye is getting $27,500 for his current nine-day stint in Houston, Texas . . . A well known chanteuse is so embarrassed. Her doctor informed her that what she thought was an "allergy" came from fleas!" . . . Prince Ali Khan, who had great success with Rita Hayworth in Europe, plans a trip to California to resume the romance . . . Friends hear the Gar Moores (Nancy Walker) are on the verge of taking their brand new marriage to the courts.

Paris observers are sure that Jean Wallace would say "yes" eagerly if Franchot Tone asked her to remarry him.

Tip to Rodeo stars: Hold onto your hats! You get ten per cent off all checks at Trader Tom's restaurant if you show up wearing ten-gallon lids.

Newest sleeper disc is Ray Anthony's version of "Gloria." It sold more than 300,000 almost overnight in the midwest . . . The Navy would like about 5,000 of its reserve officers to go back on active duty for a year.

Many midtown garages now accept only small cars for permanent storage. The larger cars take up too much room . . . Michele Morgan, leading lady of "Symphonie Pastorale," quite a hit, has been deluged with offers to return to Hollywood, where she was something less than a sensation—but she refuses to consider it. She told a French newspaperman, "Hollywood crushed my personality."

Do You Tag People Right?

Most of us tend to size people up when we first meet them. Sometimes we tag them correctly. Oftener we're wrong. Experts, however, have studied the relation between body-build and character. These experts, and they are psychologists, physiologists and anatomists, say that it isn't true that a receding chin shows a weak character. On the contrary it usually goes with mental quickness, fast action, impatience and enthusiasm. But it is true that fat men make the best husbands. At least the experts say they do if you require affection, cheerfulness, sociability and an even disposition. And don't you believe that a big-square-jawed man is sure to be a go-getter.

Maybe Dick Tracy and Superman have lantern jaws and whirlwind personalities, but all the massive jaw really shows is stamina, and the experts say it's the sign of a slow-acting, deliberate plodder. Nor is a prominent nose the sign of nosiness. Instead it is the sure advertisement of vitality, drive, force and combativeness. The experts blow up a lot of other ideas, too. For instance, a chatterbox is not quick-witted; very long fingers do not go with artistic ability; a person who makes fun of himself is hardly ever modest; a strong handshake is not a positive sign of assurance; a strutting walker is not sure of himself, and the son of a famous man is not apt to be shiftless.

On the other hand it is true that men with bushy eyebrows are virile; that redheads are hot-tempered; that great men have great big thumbs; that women who gush are insincere; that smart children are likely to be smart grown-ups; that fat women are great for ceremony; that bald-headed men are exceptionally romantic lovers, and that stutterers are rapid thinkers who can't keep their tongues up with the speed of their thoughts. Of course, the Companion article admits, the experts say there are exceptions to any rule, for you can't take everything into account at a glance and you should never size a person up by one trait alone. But it's fun just the same.

Apple fritters make a delicious accompaniment for chicken or ham. Serve with maple syrup if desired.

This platter furnishes one reason for October being so popular. This one boasts of juicy patties of pure pork sausage placed atop generous slices of orange. The combination is good without further treatment, but to make it extra delicious first poach the orange slices in some light corn sirup for about 10 minutes. When the sausage patties are placed on top of the orange slices the sirup can then be poured over the whole thing. Place the vegetable right on the platter with the meat to save dishes as well as furnish color contrast. Shown on this platter are two rows of corn with green peppers. Cranberry sauce is the side dish.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Oct. 6.

UNDER a generally sinister, treacherous and intriguing sidereal rule it might take more than customary precaution, alertness, sagacity and sound principle in order to safely and profitably navigate the shoals. From every angle, business and personal, there is danger from fraud, duplicity and subtle snares with danger of entanglements with those in authority, as well as in social, cultural and affectional relations. It might be as well to postpone major decisions, or to act upon the highest tenets of principle and honor, during this menace.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are warned of a year in which it is advised that the best preparation for the incoming year is to establish an open and above-board policy of honesty, and high principle, since any other approach is likely to lead to a sinister morass of subtlety, craft, schemes and intrigues; in which the final outcome is so beclouded in danger and obscurity as to make the denouement anything but delectable. Home, reputation, the emotional and spiritual life as well, could be indrawn to such pernicious and baneful pitfalls and ignoble alliances.

A child born on this day should be grounded in high principle, honesty, straightforwardness and integrity, lest it be the dupe of its own feelings and emotions, as well as sinister forces from without. Well grounded it could escape all harm.
